Jet Pilot Collapses

CHICAGO—American Airlines pilot E. R. Mecklenburg collapsed over the controls of a Boeing 727 jet plane just before it touched down at O'Hare Airport yesterday. The plane's co-pilot and flight engineer landed the jet and its 92 passengers safely. The stricken pilot was taken to a Chicago hospital for tests to determine the cause of his collapse.

He was reported in satisfactory condition.

Tough Crime Bill

SPRINGFIELD — Probation would be denied to anyone convicted of a felony in which a gun was used under a bill passed by the House Wednesday. The bill is aimed at cutting down the number of second and third offenses by making prison terms mandatory.

House Recesses

SPRINGFIELD — You will probably find your state representatives at home or in their local offices today. The House has adjourned for the week. It will reconvene Monday afternoon.

Clearing a Channel

WASHINGTON — The difficulty local and state governments have in cutting through the bureaucratic tangle surrounding federal programs is a concern of President Nixon. He has asked Congress for the power to combine similar programs under one agency. He feels this would eliminate duplication of efforts at the federal level and simplify procedure on the state and local level.

Eager? Volunteer

WASHINGTON — An Office of Voluntary Action has been created within the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The office, promised by President Nixon in the 1968 political campaign, will be a clearing house for information on volunteer activities and will help willing volunteers find areas of service in government.

It's Goldwater - Jr.

LOS ANGELES — There are two Barry Goldwaters in Congress, now — Sr. and Jr. The son of the Arizona senator, won a resounding victory in a special election for California's 27th Congressional District seat. He is a 30-year-old, bachelor stockbroker.

Probe the Panthers

SAN FRANCISCO — A federal grand jury has begun an investigation of Black Panther activities. The inquiry began Wednesday with the appearance of seven Negro witnesses, subpoenaed from several S. cities.

Coast A-Quiver

PASADENA — Seismographs got a workout Wednesday. First there was a sharp aftershock from a strong earthquake that rocked Southern California two days ago. It was the strongest of the dozen aftershocks recorded in the wake of Monday's quake. It was followed some 45 minutes later, but only coincidentally, by twin nuclear blasts in Nevada that were felt in Las Vegas, 70 miles from the detonation site.

No Comedown - Yet

ST LOUIS — You think you have problems this morning? Owners of 44 automobiles trapped in the upper level of a 15-story automatic parking garage in St. Louis would show little sympathy. Their autos were trapped there when the automatic elevator in the garage broke down. A part to repair the elevator has been ordered from Chicago. No one knows when it will arrive. Many of the car owners who were hotel guests have left town. When their cars will join them, no one knows.

Night Racing Fuss Revived

High-powered lights which have sprung up recently around Arlington Park have created a revival of one of the hottest controversies in local history: night racing.

The lights, many of which are beamed directly at the race track, have caused some local anger and a terse "no comment" from Arlington Park officials.

Several persons have called the Herald and charged the new lights are the opening gun for night racing.

When questioned about the lights, public relations personnel at the track and the secretary of Mrs. Marje Everett, president of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises, said they had no comment on the purpose of the lights.

HOWEVER, IT SEEMS unlikely the lights will be used this year for night racing, although they could be activated for the park's twilight racing season (tracing this summer can end no later than 7:30 p.m.).

A spokesman for the Illinois State Racing Board told the Herald that the hours for Arlington Park racing remain the same, and that a special meeting would have to be called to change the hours for the season this year.

The resumption of the controversy began over a month ago, when high-powered lights were installed around the parking areas.

However, within the last week high-intensity floodlights have been installed along Euclid Avenue, facing the track, and along the inside stretch of the track.

The controversy began in December, 1967, when Mrs. Everett announced that she would petition for night racing hours at a meeting of the Illinois Racing Board. The clamor of opposition from local residents was followed by Mrs. Everett's withdrawal of the petition.

IN NOVEMBER, 1968, the track requested racing hours between noon and midnight, without specifying the hours. Arlington Heights officials demanded that the track ask for racing between 4 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

In face of additional protests from the Palatine Village Board and residents from Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows, track attorneys finally submitted a specific request.

Area residents breathed a collective sigh of relief when it was announced that racing would end no later than 7:30.

One outspoken opponent of night racing, Mrs. Barbara Vidmar of Arlington Heights, a candidate for a seat on the village board a month ago, commented sharply: "The people proved in the election that they don't care, so I don't care."

She was referring to her defeat at the polls by members of the Village Caucus Party.

Palatine's assessed valuation for 1968 took the expected 10 per cent jump to top the $73 million mark.

That's about $7 million more than last year's and is in line with anticipated revenue already figured into the budget.

Village officials were happy to hear the figure reported by the Cook County Clerk's office is even a little higher than expected.

"We've been talking in terms of $72 million when looking at the revenue picture," Village Mgr. Berton Braun said.

TOTAL ASSESSED valuation came to $73,715,930 according to the county office. For 1967, it came to a little more than $66 million and was about $61 million in 1966.

Assessed valuations are the key to local tax rates which have not been released by the county clerk's office yet, according to Braun.

But it looks like the village manager's predictions of last summer that Palatine's tax rate would remain almost the same will come true.

Close to 65 cents per $100 assessed valuation last year, it was estimated the rate could fall below that (.647) this year, especially with the approximate $1.7 million increase over expectations.

A TAX LEVY ordinance of $478,088 which helps pay village expenses during the past fiscal year was approved by the board of trustees last summer.

The board approved levying $194,670 for operating expenses. The tax rate is up to 27 cents from last year's rate of .267.

Included in the appropriation tax levy on real property was other expenses and $156,869 for the Palatine Public Library.

The library's tax rate remains at the ceiling of 20 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

About 18 cents per $100 assessed valuation was left for the rest of the village's expenses including Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund, $48,325; social security, $15,965; library bonds, $13,493; fire station bonds, $7,800; garbage collection, $39,140, and civil defense, $1,236.

Most village expenses are paid with funds other than taxes, including revenue and fees from refuse collection, motor vehicle parking system and sewer and water funds.

Red Tag Days—A 'First'

Red Tag Days — the first sale of its kind — begin today in Palatine.

The village-wide sales promotion designed to draw all the commercial areas of the community together is sponsored by the local chamber of commerce.

Almost 90 per cent of the retail merchants in the chamber are tagging some of their merchandise with the red seal of offering bargain prices.

Banners in the store windows advertise a merchant's participation in Red Tag Days today, tomorrow and Saturday.

SOME STORES ARE offering prizes. All are offering a reduction in price on some merchandise.

In addition to the store banners, the chamber has arranged for several 3-by-15-foot banners to be strung across local streets.

Since its reorganization in January, the chamber has been trying to unite commercial activity in Palatine which long has been divided into three major areas: downtown, Palatine Plaza Shopping Center and merchants along Northwest Highway.

Depending on the success of this week's sales promotion, Red Tag Days could be the beginning of increased business activity in the village.

Jaycees Invite You to a 'Night'

Palatine's Jaycees will hold a Monte Carlo night Friday and have invited all Palatine men aged 21 to 35 to attend with their wives.

The event is designed to introduce prospective members to the Jaycees and the Jaycee Annes, the wives' group.

It will begin at 8 p.m. in the Slade Street Firehouse.

Persons planning to attend are asked to call Marge Giostra at 359-3416.

Car Theft Charged

A former Palatine resident was charged with auto theft and burglary Wednesday night following the theft of a 1969 Javelin, $40 in cash and a camera from Bonnie Motors, 500 E. NW Highway, Palatine.

John W. Myers, 33, was arrested by Chicago police who said he was attempting to hold up a gas station. Police said they found the stolen auto near the scene of the attempted burglary.

MYERS, OF GULFPORT, Miss., was being held in Cook County Jail because he was unable to post bond. Palatine police say he will be served two warrants charging him with the auto theft and burglary Friday night and required to post $2,500 bond on the charges.

Myers was formerly employed as a shipping clerk at the W. W. Granger Co., in Chicago.

named high school photographer of the year by the Illinois Press Photographers Association, lives near the apartments and was one of the first photographers on the scene. The picture appeared in the Herald March 26.

by BOB ZANIC

"When I received the letter informing me I had won, I'm not really certain how I felt . . . just surprised and glad I guess."

So said Greg Warner, a lanky and alert 15-year-old Rolling Meadows student at Fremd High School.

Greg, who lives at 1765 Taft Ave., was named the High School Photographer of the Year by the Illinois Press Photographers Association at its spring workshop Sunday.

His photographs won three awards out of the top five, plus an honorable mention. The photos were:

"Stand Up for America," awarded

"Best of Show."

"Memories of a Time Past," a third place winner.

"Nine and Twenty Blackbirds," a winner of fifth place.

A SEQUENCE OF shots taken of a high school coach during a basketball game, won an honorable mention.

Greg is the first and only sophomore ever to receive this award, and more remarkable, he accomplished it with less than a year of photography experience.

"I've always been interested in photography," the former New Jerseyite said, "but never really had the opportunity to pursue it."

The opportunity came to Greg one afternoon last spring while he was sitting in a Fremd study hall listening to announcements over the public address system.

Suddenly an announcement that the school paper needed photographers caught his attention.

"I didn't realize it then, but I would say this was the opportunity I was looking for."

IN REFLECTION Greg said, "a lot of credit for my success should go to Mrs. Pat Mulcrone, Fremd English teacher and editor of the paper and to Mrs. Cotter, yearbook editor."

"The only students who ever showed up for the job were myself and a couple of girls. We all got jobs but the girls didn't last very long."

After the first edition was published, Greg was appointed Chief Photographer.

Soon afterwards, he did photography for the yearbook.

The following summer Greg visited his aunt's home near Cape Cod, and being handy with tools, remodeled her entire front porch.

HE ALREADY HAD plans on how to use the money earned from this project and when he wasn't working, he read many magazines about photography. He also found time to draw up plans for a dark room. He had one major regret while at Cape Cod.

"I didn't bring a camera with me at the time," he said, and Cape Cod is not a place for a photographer to be without his camera. The landscape is very photogenic."

When Greg returned home he bought the necessary material and began building his lab. When the cabinet work and shelving were completed, he began adding the photography equipment.

The lab is compact in size, clean, orderly.

Bank Doors To Swing Open

Suburban National Bank in Palatine opens for business today in its new headquarters.

As the name indicates, the new facilities are located on the ground floor of the 10-story Suburban National Bank Building at the corner of Northwest Highway and Rohlfing Road.

The new bank will occupy 5,000 square feet and includes all modern and computerized facilities, according to John Hughes, bank president.

Highlighting new features of the bank is a "Suburban Room" designed to provide a spot for local citizens to meet.

"By meeting," Hughes explained, "I mean if a group is planning to go to lunch they can use our room as the initial gathering place."

IT ALSO CAN be used as a customer lounge.

There are five windows for customer service inside the bank and two drive-up windows.

Officers' desks are located near the entrance with the president's office and a large conference room off to one side.

Included in the new facilities are a large work room and employee lounge and lunchroom.

More than 600 safety deposit boxes are immediately available in the lower level of the bank, in addition to coupon booths, a vault area and a box inspection booth.

The safety deposit box area is designed so it can be expanded to include between 4,000 and 5,000 boxes.

"AS A MATTER of fact, the whole bank is designed to be expandable," Hughes said.

"With little trouble, we can triple the number of customer service windows, when the need arises," he added.

The Suburban National Bank could be enlarged to 8,000 square feet when more room is needed.

"The public will determine how soon all that could happen," Hughes said.

Decorated in orange, brown and gold, the bank's interior is spacious. Supplementing walnut paneling is brown oil walnut furniture.

EXCEPT ON Wednesdays when the bank is closed, the lobby will be open from 8:30 a.m. until 3 p.m. The drive-up window will be open until 5:30 p.m. and on Friday evenings, the bank will be open from 6 to 8 p.m.

Suburban National will be open from 8:30 to noon on Saturdays and the drive-up window will be open during the same hours on Wednesday.

FREMONT HIGH SCHOOL'S annual Variety Show will be presented Friday and Saturday night at 8 p.m., in the school cafeteria. Entitled, "Up, Up, and Away," the show will use a dual stage for the first time. Continuity will be provided by the "Peanuts" gang. Entertainment will include dancing, vocal groups, instrumentals, monologues and skits. The show is directed by Carl Chiddister, with choreography by Mrs. Holly Lemke and stage band by Jeff Corbin. The stage manager is Glenn Templeman.

ly and equipped with an electric heater. Cabine's and shelves are strategically located and all items are arranged for easy use. Greg said he has a policy of cleaning the lab after every work session.

"COMING TO A clean lab makes getting started easier and the experience enjoyable."

And as a result of shooting many pictures, an activity he considers very important, he devotes many hours in the lab developing those pictures.

Exactly how did Greg go about taking his award-winning shots and what caused him to enter the contest?

To begin, the photo "Stand Up for America" which shows a kneeling hippie-type smoking a cigarette in front of a post-election poster "Stand Up for America" was selected from a series of shots he had taken of the hippie.

GREG HAD SEEN the hippie working at a local gas station and one afternoon asked him if he would pose for some shots. The hippie consented and was furnished with a paint can and was instructed to paint an old wooden structure that was covered with election banners.

Greg shot away, and out of that experience came the High School Photographer of the Year Award.

The birds were heading south for the winter and a large flock of them had chosen Greg's backyard to rest.

He had bought a new lens and hadn't tried it out yet. When he saw the birds, he also saw the opportunity to use the lens. He took many shots, then selected three, and put them together.

"MEMORIES OF A Time Past" was very simple to take," he said. "I just placed all of the antique items on top of an old table, turned on the overhead light bulb and started shooting."

The coaching sequence was taken during a Fremont High School basketball game and although the coach's face had a worried cast about it, his team had won the game.

The idea for entering the contest came as a result of reading about it in Paddock Publications.

"I wrote away for the information and then filled out all of the papers and followed the instructions."

Among Greg's other interests are horseback riding, for which he has won several awards, and mathematics. However, he has changed his vocational choice from engineering to photo-journalism. He was also responsible for starting a Camera Club at his school.

AFTER ATTENDING a photography seminar at Paddock Publications around Christmas and watching how the professionals do it, Greg said that he realized he had a lot to learn.

"But I prefer to be in a profession where there is always the opportunity to learn something new. I like experiencing different things and not being confined in one place. I can't see myself sitting behind a desk all day."

Greg intends to keep on studying photography, but more important, plans to shoot as many pictures as possible.

"That is the only way to learn this very demanding art," he said.

17 Students Win Merit Scholarships

Seventeen area high school students have been named National Merit Scholars.

The awards mark them as among the cream of the crop in this year's high school graduating classes throughout the country.

The names were released Wednesday night by the National Merit Scholarship Corp., Evanston, which coordinates the annual recognition and scholarship competition funded by colleges, corporations and foundations throughout the United States.

The announcement stresses that the number of award winners has no relation to a high school's quality.

If it did, Arlington and Prospect High Schools could claim equal honors. Each school had four merit scholarship winners, while Sacred Heart of Mary High School was next with three.

ARLINGTON Heights has eight of this year's merit scholarship winners among its residents while Mount Prospect has five.

Twelve of the 17 are merit scholars are girls.

Those cited as winners and the colleges they will attend are:

Arlington High School — Barbara Fondrie, 510 S. Pine, University of Illinois; Laura M. Jenkins, 915 N. Belmont, St. John's University; Linda J. Nielsen, 1210 W. Euclid, Illinois State University and Brian Renz, 116 E. Orchard, Michigan State.

Prospect High School — Judith Noland, 709 S. William, Mount Prospect, Michigan State; Laurence A. Wonders, 700 N. Main, Mount Prospect; Michele Hussli, 1302 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, Rosary College, and Pamela Weir, 304 N. Drury Lane, Arlington Heights, Illinois Wesleyan.

Sacred Heart of Mary High School — Debora L. Threedy, 2277 N. Circle Drive, Palatine, college not specified; Christine A. Kirby, 17 Kenilworth, Elk Grove Village, University of Pittsburgh, and Susan M. Zwolski, 903 Alder Lane, Mount Prospect, Macalester.

Wheeling High School — Barbara Hoesterey, 1115 Greenfield Lane, Mount Prospect, University of Illinois.

Conant High School — Lynn Churchill, 218 Arizona Blvd., college not specified.

FOREST VIEW HIGH School — Mark W. Frisbie, 901 S. We-Go Trail, Mount Prospect, University of California, and Raymond L. Kook, 1146 S. Mitchell, Arlington Heights, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Palatine High School — M. Leslie Peak, 217 N. Norman Drive, Palatine, American University.

St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights — David W. Woods, 726 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights, Michigan State University.

Some of the students received scholarships ranging from $100 to $6,000, depending on financial need and the type of college they will be attending. Funds for these scholarships are donated by colleges or corporations.

The National Merit Scholarship Foundation gave two types of direct awards — $1,000 scholarships and honorary, non cash citations.

On making comparisons between schools based on the number of merit scholars, the corporation said, "The individual wins the award in the Merit Program. While the school deserves credit for its role in developing the student's ability, Merit Scholarship winners are usually products of a combination of able parents whose home influences, effective schooling and other background experience within and outside of formal schooling."

Forest View Band 'Superior'

Superior. That's the word that describes the Forest View High School band.

The Illinois High School Band Association recently gave the band the association's highest award — a superior rating.

In the 18-band contest, Forest View played the "Minute Man March" by Robert Pearson, "Chorale and Alleluia" by Howard Hanson, and "Emperata Overture" by Claude Smith.

Strong support for the band has come from the Band Boosters, an organization of band parents. Through various fund-raising projects, the group has helped send the band to summer camp and has provided transportation for marching engagements.

Future booster activities include a dinner ner dance May 16 and an all-day car wash May 17 to be held at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights.

Only four band members will be lost through graduation while a large number of freshmen have signed up to take the new, full-credit course.

Boys Baseball Season Will Start Sunday

Rolling Meadows' 14th Boys Baseball season will get underway Sunday with opening day ceremonies.

The activities will begin at south field, near the park district office on Central Road, at 1 p.m. Game time is 2:30 p.m.

Ceremonies will include singing of the National Anthem by Paddy Manna, local singer and entertainer, and an invocation delivered by Rev. William Herman of the Rolling Meadows Community Church.

MAYOR Roland Meyer will then make a speech and the players, coaches and managers will be introduced.

The teams will have their official pictures taken at this time also.

Huffo the Clown, portrayed by Don Klomp, will be on hand to liven up the program for children and balloons will be distributed.

Members of the Pony and Colt Leagues will be selling peanuts and Boys Baseball Booster pins and decals.

"It should be a fine show and a good time for all," said John Kuhn, secretary and program chairman. "We invite everyone to come early and enjoy the show."

Conference Held on Pollution Control Laws

Pollution and polluters have been robbing the environment blind of its wealth of clean air and clean water. How a posse of local, state and federal governments can be formed to run the bandits out of cover was the subject of an all-day conference Tuesday on pollution control.

"I WOULD LIKE to give special thanks and recognition to John G. Woods, past president of Arlington Heights for putting this excellent program together. Elk Grove Village Pres. Jack Pahl left gave the accolade Tuesday at a conference on air and water pollution offered by the Council of Governments of Cook County."

The conference was sponsored by the Council of Governments of Cook County (COG). A speakers list of 15 experts from fields of air and water pollution control drew 100 persons to the University of Illinois Chicago Circle campus.

The public is ready for a halt to pollution, Clarence Klassen, chief sanitary engineer for the Illinois Department of Public Health, said.

Government has taken serious notice of the health hazards and clean-up costs related to deterioration of the environment, the conference brought out.

Starting at the federal level, the public has the back-up force of the Water Quality Act of 1965, which forced states to set interstate water quality standards, and the Air Quality Control Act of 1967, which forces states to set clean air standards.

Enforcement on the state level comes from a state sanitary water board and an air pollution control board. The Metropolitan Sanitary District is charged with water quality control on the local level. Municipalities may adopt their own air pollution control ordinances with the requirement that they match state standards.

"Government regulations are here to stay, perhaps two centuries too late," Samuel Lawton, vice chairman of the Illinois Air Pollution Control Board, said.

"Progress in the field of pollution control has been in direct relationship to government's insistence," Lawton said.

Legal enforcement is aimed at stopping pollution at its source, necessarily involving local government. Fines and injunctions can be applied to industry and municipal services, Bill Stanley, director of the Chicago Department of Air Pollution Control, said.

But he asked what is to be done with the chief source of air pollution — the automobile.

"People want to live 'uptight' and where the crowd is," Stanley asserted.

"They want to drive that car to work each day. About 60 to 70 per cent are single drivers. That's the only time they are master of their own destiny."

Vladimir Haensel, vice president of research, Universal Oil Products Co., had an opportunity in the later program to tell of industry's volunteer efforts in pollution control.

Inventor of the platforming process of refining gasoline, Haensel in his own laboratory is developing "clear fuels" to reduce harmful exhaust emissions while maintaining high car performance.

He developed a "catalytic" device for automobiles to burn up polluted emissions, but the automobile industry chose not to accept it, he said.

Samuel Thomas, director of Environmental Control of the Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., Toledo, Ohio, said his firm was able to reduce air pollution through the manufacturing process itself.

Before separate air and water pollution control acts were adopted, municipalities used "nuisance" laws to prosecute polluters, Jack Siegel, Arlington Heights, Schaumburg and Evanston municipal attorney, said.

This is an old area of law with not much new in its objectives, Siegel said, adding that the problem is a "tribute to how man can foul his own nest."

The emerging pattern of law is for federal, state and local cooperation, Siegel said. The federal government sets the standards, provides the funds for implementation and leaves it at the local level for enforcement, he said.

"In the field of municipal enabling legislation, we've been granted considerable power," Siegel said.

Siegel said a bill expanding the definition of polluted waters, a bill increasing fines for improper sewer taps and a bill prohibiting combined storm and sanitary sewers are pending in the General Assembly.

He suggested communities wait for federal air quality standards before adopting local ordinances, but encouraged having a local air pollution law. He distributed a copy of Evanston's air pollution ordinance.

Zoning law was initiated to control the environment at one time, the attorney said.

"Zoning was to make certain light and air would be available to all buildings. But at our present air quality, this might not be necessary or even desirable," he said.

Autos Chief Cause of Air Pollution

If you drive an automobile you are part of the chief cause of air pollution — so much so that air pollution experts worry when you get caught in expressway traffic jams.

Or, as put Tuesday by a petroleum research scientist, "a car on the market prior to 1968 produces some 300 pounds of exhaust gas when driven one hour at 60 miles per hour."

Vladimir Haensel, vice president and director of research, Universal Oil Products Co., spoke at an all-day conference on air and water pollution control sponsored by the Council of Governments of Cook County and arranged by John Woods, former Arlington Heights president.

Haensel talked on vehicle emissions and their outlook in the crackdown on air pollution.

William Hunter, another Universal Oil vice president, had previously told the conference that half of the air's nitrogen oxide pollutants are generated by the automobile. The automobile accounts for 86 per cent of the atmosphere's pollutants and Los Angeles famous smog is due to sunlight on nitrogen oxides, he said.

Haensel said of the 300 pounds of automobile emissions four fifths of harmful gases will be carbon monoxide. About 500 to 1000 parts per million hydrocarbons will be produced along with about 1700 parts per million oxides of nitrogen, he said.

"You have really polluted the atmosphere," he said.

The federal government required the automobile industry to install air pollution control devices on 1968 model automobiles with stipulations these be improved.

HAENSEL BLAMED emission pollutants on incomplete combustion but said this condition also creates good acceleration and engine performance that drivers want. "We need the performance and economy of using all the fuel," he said.

In his role as a research scientist Haensel inventor of the process leading to "platforming" said the job ahead is to take the exhaust gas and complete the combustion process.

Haensel developed a catalytic system which proved "an extremely efficient way of burning exhausts," but could not sell it to automotive companies. The automobile industry said it was working on an improved combustion system, the scientist reported.

"Even though we're cleaning up the exhausts, the car population is increasing rapidly and we need this just to stay even, to keep the same mess we're in," he said.

HE PREDICTED by 1970, or 1972 at the latest, the car industry will say it needs a catalytic device to burn hydrocarbons.

The catalytic process Haensel described would burn emission gases over a catalyst in the presence of additional air. He said his firm has developed a catalyst and container that effectively reduce carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons in a small container.

"Space under the hood is at a premium since people want power steering and power brakes, so we want a small converter," he said.

This system, he said, was certified as meeting standards of the California Air Pollution Control Board, but in the meantime, the auto industry developed improved combustion techniques.

HE POINTED OUT while the auto industry is meeting the timetable of federal controls of emission standards, these devices can be altered by car owners to give better engine performance at the sake of pollution control.

The specifications in the future make it imperative to seek other solutions.

His challenge from the petroleum industry is to refine a product of only hydrogen and carbon, rather than these elements contaminated with lead, chlorine, sulfur or other contaminants.

"At the same time, the automobile industry has to supply the buyer with the best performance from the standpoint of starting, acceleration and economy."

Discuss Harper Campus Issue

The Harper Junior College Board, worried that its new campus will not be ready by the promised midsummer moving date, will huddle tonight with architects and the contractor.

Trustees will try to get a commitment from Mario Egidi, president of Corbett Construction Co., as to when work on the community college's six buildings will be completed.

Last week a spokesman for the architectural firm said work was lagging.

"REALISTICALLY, I think somewhere between July 1 and Aug. 1 the promises of July 1 will be met," the spokesman commented.

He said he thought the college officials will be "lucky" to have the science and lecture buildings ready for use by Sept. 1.

Trustees hope to get a commitment from Egidi at the 8 p.m. meeting to start putting his construction crews on overtime to move the work along.

Corbett's contract calls for a $300-a-day penalty after the completion date but there is disagreement as to what date that is.

The original contract called for a July 1 completion date, but trustees were told last Thursday that the Illinois Building Authority has allowed 30 days more because of site problems.

"WE DON'T RECOGNIZE that one college official added

Any delay past Aug. 1 will put the college in a squeeze in its plans to move equipment and furniture into the campus buildings.

Registration for the fall semester is supposed to take place in the Harper College Center in mid-August.

Harper now holds classes evenings in Elk Grove and Forest View high schools.

The building-use agreement will lapse this summer, and both college and high school officials will be glad to see it end.

The college has been cramped for space, particularly for parking — in the high schools. The double use of the high school facilities has inevitably led to friction between the two staffs.

Thursday's meeting will take place in the college data center, once the stable for the rural south Palatine Township farm where the Harper campus buildings, one of them still not fully roofed, dominate the site at Roselle and Algonquin roads.

Complicating — but not expected to delay — the construction project is the fact that Fridstein and Fitch, the Chicago architectural firm assisting with the project, has had a change in partners.

Robert Fridstein has left the firm which is now known as Fitch Larocca Carrington and Jones.

E. Erie Jones in Palatine is among the partners.

THE HARPER ATTORNEY, Frank Hines of Elk Grove Village, told college trustees Thursday that the change in the firm's ownership does not affect the individual contractual commitments made by the men who originally signed.

TWO "MEN OF THE WEEK"

As announced last Friday over WEXI 92.7 FM Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect Federal Savings and Loan Association saluted two instead of one "Man of the Week."

The dual choice was Robert Teichert as the new Village Mayor of Mount Prospect and Dan Congreve as the man he succeeds in the post.

We salute Teichert as the man who will serve, just as we recognize Congreve for the service he has given his community for four years in a position of great responsibility.

Both are "Men of the Week" and deserving of the thanks of Mount Prospect for the long hours, the many telephone calls, the patient presiding over village board and committee meetings, the sacrifice of their families involved in the mayorship.

Thus it's Bob and Dan, "Men of the Week."

The Way We See It

Postal Reform Now!

President Nixon spoke wisely last week when he pledged his administration to break "the cycle of greater and greater postal deficits and more and more rate increases."

But in his own way — in the same message to Congress — he perpetuated that very cycle.

Mr. Nixon asked for yet another increase in the first class mailing fee, proposing it be boosted to seven cents a letter. He also asked that the post card cost be upped to six cents, and that second and third class rates be raised. Only air mail rates would be left untouched.

The President had cause for lamenting when he outlined and expected $12 billion postal deficit in the next fiscal year, a deficit he hopes to cut in half with an anticipated $635 million from the proposed rate increases.

The deficit is a wretched thing to contemplate, but it is also grossly unfair to ask again that mail-sending citizens of this country up the ante just to keep the old system running a little longer.

We think the President is confusing his priorities. He has expressed the proper sentiments in the past underscoring the pressing need to reform the Post Office Department and its operations.

But, in his first major message to Congress on the postal mess, he has asked to raise the stamp price again and promised to come up with reforms later.

We submit that the President — and the Congress — should give immediate attention where it belongs: to postal reform, to the establishment of the Post Office Department on a truly businesslike basis without steady deterioration of service, widening deficits and the endless train of crisis situations answered only by new rate hikes.

We applauded the President at his first step in February, when he moved to remove postmasterships from political patronage.

But that was a very small — and long overdue — beginning. More to the point, we repeat our admonishment of January: "So long as Post Office operations are politically controlled and rates politically determined, there will be no progress in overcoming ineffective management, outdated methods, poor morale, high turnover, waste and excessive operating overhead — no matter how much automation is introduced."

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount said as much last week when he observed, "We're dealing with decades of mismanagement."

If he recognizes that, and if President Nixon recognizes that, it is time for them to begin doing something about it.

Congress has been too willing in the past to go along with the old solutions, repeatedly boosting postal rates and perpetuating its plums of patronage and deciding where new post offices will be located. The President, unfortunately, has contributed to the pattern and the mood by his rate hike proposal.

Mr. Nixon has promised a reform package within 45 days. We suggest he might save himself some work by looking first at the Kappel Commission report issued last June, a report that recommended removing the Post Office Department from politics and making it a self-supporting, government-owned corporation.

The kind of deep and serious thinking that went into that report should no longer be ignored. The President should put his reform program together as speedily as possible, get it to Congress, and then the American people should demand that at last the lawmakers push through with positive action.

Woods Contributed to Entire Area

John Woods' retirement as Village President of Arlington Heights leaves a gap not only in the village he served, but in the organizations he participated in during his eight years in office.

Woods, throughout his term in office, stressed the importance of and participated in various governmental bodies, including the Cook County Council of Governments, the Northwest Municipal Conference, and other groups fostering cooperation between communities in this area.

His greatest single contribution was the concept of a 10-town megaburbia, which would bond the communities in the northwestern suburbs into one, cohesive unit.

Although approval of the plan is distant, Woods is responsible for presenting the plan to the public. His energy in supporting megaburbia may eventually result in at least a partial adoption of the idea.

Woods' other contributions are numerous. He fought hard for flood control and improved planning, and he kept a strong alliance with such groups as the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) and the Chicago Area Transportation Study (CATS).

Eye on Arlington

by JOAN KLUSMANN

During his campaign for park commissioner in Arlington Heights, Nathaniel Leighton suggested that inner-city children be given an opportunity to visit and play in village parks.

Following the election, successful candidate Roy Bressler said Leighton contributed several imaginative ideas on recreation during the campaign. "Specifically, his proposal about sharing facilities with inner-city children should be pursued," Bressler also suggested that Leighton serve as consultant for the district on such a program.

A VILLAGE RESIDENT who called the Herald said it was a good thing Bressler didn't voice his views on the subject prior to the April 1 vote — "he wouldn't have won the election."

But underprivileged, inner-city kids have played in village parks and pools for the past few years — with good results. The Friendly Town program, which started out with three or four children visiting the suburbs one summer, mushroomed to 120 kids coming to the area last year.

Fix That First

The City Beat

The Drubbing They Took

by ED MURNANE

If a final postmortem is going to be written on the 1969 Rolling Meadows city election, it must deal with the failure of the Palatine Township Republican Organization to capture the three seats it deserved.

The logical assumption, when looking at the vote totals and witnessing the manner in which the three GOP-backed candidates were so overwhelmingly defeated, would be that Rolling Meadows is anti-Republican.

BUT THAT'S NOT the case. The city, although maybe not as strongly Republican as many of the other towns in this area, is, nevertheless, mostly Republican and can be counted on to deliver Republican votes in general elections.

What then was the reason for the GOP defeat?

There were several reasons, and just as they resulted in a Republican defeat in Rolling Meadows, they have resulted in victories in other communities.

The first, and foremost reason, is that Rolling Meadows residents did not see a need for a change in government.

Five incumbent aldermen were running in the city's five wards.

THESE FIVE, WITH a total of 34 years of city council experience, represented the existing government of Rolling Meadows. Because of their years on the council, they can take both credit and blame for most of what Rolling Meadows is — both the good and the bad.

When the good outweighs the bad, as it certainly has in Rolling Meadows, the citizenry sees no need for a change.

That was the first strike against the Republicans.

And just as it was a strike against them in Rolling Meadows, it worked to their advantage in Hoffman Estates.

IN THAT TOWN, the incumbent administration had become so unpopular that neither the village president nor any of the incumbent trustees whose terms were up chose — or dared — to run.

One trustee, who had been closely aligned with the village president, but whose term was not up for two more years, did run for president against the

Ed Murnane

Republican candidate. He was defeated by better than a 2-1 ratio as the entire Republican slate was elected.

The reason? The people were tired of the old administration, and the Republicans showed the most promise of improvement. It's quite possible the same thing could happen in Rolling Meadows if Mayor Roland Meyer's popularity begins to decline.

THE SECOND FACTOR in the Republican defeat in Rolling Meadows is something the Republicans might not want to admit, but they'll have to if they ever plan to run again — which they obviously do.

Home rule. That's the key phrase. Rolling Meadows does not identify itself with Palatine Township, and particularly not with the Palatine Township Republican Organization.

The GOP organization is dominated by Palatine people, and Rolling Meadows people know that. (Of the eight elected township officials, only Clerk Mrs. Margaret Chapman is from Rolling Meadows.)

Regardless of whether the Republican backed candidates are long-time residents of Rolling Meadows or not, with that Palatine GOP tag on them, they aren't thought of as "Rolling Meadows only" citizens.

THE ORGANIZATION, if it intends to succeed in Rolling Meadows, would be wise to get a few more Rolling Meadows people at the top and to make attempts to develop itself in a more favorable light in the city.

But 1969's election is over and the Republican's success or failure will not be achieved here. Only the organization and its leaders can determine that.

Critic's Corner

Night Turf Year Away

by GERRY DeZONNA

There's a whistle in the wind that residents from Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows will begin anew their battle against Arlington Park officials and night horse racing.

Floodlights, are being installed around the oval course this spring, and residents have already been quick to jump to the conclusion that night racing is on the schedule for this season.

If you're preparing to do battle with race track officials, rest easy. There won't be any night racing this year, but I'll wager that you can sharpen your blades and battle axes for next season.

THIS SEASON'S RACING schedule has already been approved by the Illinois State Racing Commission, and at worst, unhappy residents in the area can expect twilight racing.

Twilight racing will affect only some of the meets near the end of the season. Post time will be at 4 p.m. rather than 2:15 p.m. as has been the custom in the past.

But the installation of lights is one indication that night horse racing is not too far from becoming a reality at Arlington Park. So those residents who crossed swords with race track officials last year can expect a rematch.

One word of advice. I hope residents who are unhappy with Arlington Park's future plans can produce some valid arguments. Last year's concerned citizens committee to veto night racing left much to be desired in terms of valid and justifiable complaints.

RESIDENTS COMPLAINED last year, and they are beginning to complain this year, that night racing (beginning at 8 p.m.) would be the sin to beat all other sins. They complained that night racing would increase the number of "undesirable characters" who are known to frequent the race track, create a traffic problem, and provide a thorn in the side of a relatively safe and secure suburban atmosphere.

We've had racing at Arlington Park for the past 40 years, six days a week in broad daylight. If anyone is against racing in general, gambling in specific, and dislikes the whole concept whether held during the day or night, then they shouldn't have moved to Arlington Heights or Rolling Meadows or anywhere else in the vicinity of the track.

The race track has been here a lot longer than most residents, excepting a few senior citizens and founding fathers.

If residents are indeed complaining about racing thoroughbred horses at night, I think that the new schedule would benefit them more than they realize.

THE RACE TRACK will attract some people whom residents will not consider as desirable suburban clientele. If they are worried about these people as well as stable hands and exercise boys (the lower ranks of the racing circuit) then I would think that residents would approve of night racing.

"Undesirable characters" would spend their evenings at the track rather than on the village streets looking for some excitement. There would be no need to worry about them drinking in bars and creating any disturbances (as has been known to happen after day racing).

The traffic problem would be eased rather than complicated. At present, race track traffic and rush-hour commuters are both battling to get home at the same time. Night racing at least would provide for a staggered traffic pattern with the race track rush not beginning until early evening after the normal daily traffic.

If residents are worried about the race track's influence upon their children, why not have the races in the evening when the young children are off the streets, safe from traffic and strangers?

NIGHT RACING is not a shockingly new and innovative idea that should provoke residents into forming neighborhood vigilante groups. The harness races are usually held at night in Illinois, and neighboring residents have had few complaints.

In the past, night racing hasn't given rise to an alarmingly, or unalarmingly, large crime rate or increase in the number of police blotter incidents.

In the better interest of the communities and those people who enjoy the sport of kings, I can see no reason to raise such a commotion over night racing.

But for those residents who disapprove, they have a whole year to choose their weapons, don their war paint, and plan their attack.

THERE WON'T BE any night racing this season. It's too bad because Arlington Park's plans for the future could be the real answers to the complaints that residents have today about thoroughbred racing.

Helping Others: Would It Cost Vote?

Joan Klusmann

Spanish-American or white) do not threaten or harm suburban kids. In fact, families participating in the program believe their own children have benefited greatly from the experience.

THE VERY YOUNG child is totally unconcerned with any racial differences, and older children gain in understanding, knowledge and compassion.

While anticipation of new sights and experiences lends great excitement to the proposed visit, the initial days of the vacation can be difficult for a child. In alien surroundings with strange people, he doesn't know what is expected of him. Confronting hostility from residents can only add to the sense of insecurity.

Many people who don't participate in the program themselves, "bend over backwards" to make another child's visit a pleasant one. Kids are invited to birthday parties, private pools and fun fairs. But one unpleasant incident can mar the vacation looked forward to for so long.

Host families cannot follow their visitor around every time he wants to ride a bike around the block or take a walk. Such action would deprive the child of spontaneous enjoyment or just "being with the kids."

FAMILIES WORRY, however, whether the child will be whispered about, pointed to or insulted as he sails beyond view.

A tape played for black kids at the Museum of African-American History in Chicago says "Storm clouds are black, borders on mourning cards are black, devil's food cake is black — what shall I tell my children who are black?"

Arlington Heights residents should help a child, away from home and the comfort of familiarity, feel that black and white skin is comparable to blue or brown eyes. A sense of accomplishment can also be gained from teaching another individual something new and giving him an opportunity to grow in experience.

THE KIDS ARE the upcoming generation and while here, they are forming their own opinions of white people and their culture.

Those who have visited particularly enjoy park activities, playgrounds and pools. Additional programs for other children sponsored by the park district should be welcomed.

Walkin' the Sidelines

by PAUL LOGAN

REMEMBER THE children's story, "Peter Rabbit"?

He was warned by his mother not to go into Mr. McGregor's garden, but he did anyway.

He ate some of the vegetables, was nearly caught by Mr. McGregor and lost his clothes while making his escape.

Just what does this have to do with sports you're probably saying. Well there's a parallel.

Back in the early 1960s there existed a garden known as the United States Professional Golf Association tour.

The Mr. McGregor of that era was known as the General, Mr. Golf or the King of Golf — Arnie Palmer.

When King Arnie began ruling the Garden, it wasn't bearing a lot of fruit. But he cultivated and nourished it, and it flourished.

Rabbits tried to invade sections of the Garden, but seldom did the King or his valets — Nicklaus, Casper and Player — allow them to make many inroads.

But last year some of the former rabbits, having gotten away with full meals during their frequent attacks on the Garden, became so big, fat and sassy that they refused to be driven out.

When the final tally was taken at the end of the season, some of them, such as Murphy, Lunn and Stockton, were actually claiming power in parts of the Garden.

The news of their success spread throughout the countryside and brought droves of rabbits to the garden in search of the delectable vegetables.

This spring the Garden has been completely overrun by a multitude of rabbits. And the King, who has become very rich through nearly a decade of dominating the scene, has failed to earn enough money this past year to run in the Garden's top 15.

And because of this, he must work his way into the territory known as the Open. He's already proven himself the Master of the Garden four times and he's also won the title of ruler of the Open once. And this latter title should have allowed him to maintain his lofty state, a position he so richly deserves, for all he has done to make the Garden great and prosperous.

The only thing he has left is his Army, which is very loyal indeed. But he must subdue the rabbits on his own. He has been forced to prove a known fact — he's still King.

Maybe after this show of humility, the gods that hover over the Garden — known as the PGA rules committee — will realize their mistake and deem all former Open winners eligible to compete each year.

It has to be the most challenging quest ever in the King's career with his stately crown riding on the outcome.

Good Luck, Your Highness.

POLES BEGET POLES.

A week ago today, Forest View hosted a triangular track meet. Every event but the pole vault was held because of early darkness.

Next year this won't happen at the Falcon oval because the light drive — known as the "Forest View Hi-Lites, Inc." — "has run along on schedule," according to Roy Jelinek, who is on the construction committee.

He added that the poles would be ordered "very, very shortly" with the target date for poles and lights being built by Aug. 1.

The students, who have raised approximately $7,800 toward the drive by selling chances on a car, will be able to witness who holds the winning ticket this Saturday afternoon.

The drawing for the new car, which will be held in conjunction with the Falcon Invitational Track Meet, will give some lucky individual different means of transportation when leaving Forest View.

MENTION HORSE RACING this week and somebody's bound to begin speaking about the Kentucky Derby, an event which will be run for the 99th time this Saturday.

And with the talk, naturally, comes the discussion of what happened in the 94th running. Most people remember the winner whose crown and purse were taken away shortly after the race — Daner's Image.

Because of a drug, known as phenylbutazone, the grand old race of races was tarnished somewhat. But, hopefully this Saturday, the thoroughbred competing will be handled within the rules of this sport of kings.

The choice from this corner, having read a good deal of ink on the top entrants, has to go with a horse and rider that have shown they are both winners.

Majestic Prince gets the nod for being undefeated in seven outings.

His jockey has ridden four horses to Derby winner's circles — Iron Liege ('57), Venetian Way ('60), Decidedly ('62) and Northern Dancer ('64).

In his last win he and his horse toured the Blue Grass State's No. 1 oval in the record time of two minutes flat. This erased by two-fifths of a second the old mark that this jockey established aboard Decidedly.

His name, if you haven't guessed, is Bill Hartack.

His reasons for winning are primarily two — he'd like to tie Eddie Arcaro for the most wins in the Derby (5), and he'd also like to prove that he's still as good as they come.

THE RAIN the Paddock area has had this past week was probably scowled at by high schoolers who participate in baseball, tennis and track.

But to the golf buff, it's a welcomed sight.

Anyone who's played during the past couple of weeks has had to get somewhat depressed with the bareness of the surroundings. It resembled playing in the fall with only the absence of leaves on the ground and colder weather being the difference.

But those few days of rain have brought out the green everywhere. The trees are budding, the greens are greening and all that's needed now to make the scene complete are the golfers hacking.

NIMAGA Public Meets Set

Dave Huske is looking for competition.

The Elgin school teacher, one of the top amateur golfers in Illinois, has won only two editions of the state public links championship sponsored by the Northern Illinois Men's Amateur Golf Association.

Falcons Golfers Win Two More

Forest View's golf team kept its unbeaten record in the Mid-Suburban League and first place by winning in two matches this week against hometown opponents.

On Monday the Falcons defeated Arlington, 164-181, and then Tuesday got past a fired up Hersey foursome, 171-178.

Today they must take on Fremd at the Falcons' home course — Mount Prospect Golf Club.

"We got into a little trouble but luckily three guys came through," said Coach Art Klein after his boys' close call up at Buffalo Grove Golf Club last Tuesday.

Wayne Meier, who is in Klein's words "probably our best putter," suffered trouble around the greens with two four-putts.

But Meier's mates came through to help offset his 45 with three solid scores despite some hard, fast greens. Mike Morgan was medalist with a 41. Then came Doug Dahle with a 42 and Phil Hausman with a 43.

Morgan, who shot five over par on the Buffalo Grove layout, had four pars and five bogeys.

Scoring for the Huskies were Rick Foesselman (43), Mike Zakula (44), Mark Boyett (46) and Steve Jackish (46).

Coach Ken Carter was pleased with his team's showing adding that Forest View "didn't blow us off the course by any means."

The win boosted the Falcons' record to 5-0 in the MSL and 6-0 overall. Hersey is now 3-3 overall.

The Hersey fresh-soph team easily whipped the Falcons 180-204 in their match over the backside of the course.

On Monday, playing at the friendly confines of the Mount Prospect nine, Meier was on target. He fired a four-over-par 39 to lead the Falcons to an easy victory.

Meier started out with a bogey and a double bogey before settling down. He finished par, bogey, birdie, bogey, par, par and par.

Behind him were Brown and Hausman with 41s and Morgan with a 43. For the Cardinals it was Chris Marszalek with a 42, Rich Armour with a 43, and Brad O'Berry and Andy Kehe with 48s.

Arlington took the fresh-soph match, 179-192.

Cards Second in Net Invitational

Taking championships in three of four classes, Oak Park's varsity tennis team repeated its victory of two weeks ago in the New Trier Tennis Invitational by claiming the team title last weekend at the Arlington Invitational.

The host Cardinals finished as runner-ups to Oak Park, taking one championship.

Oak Park nabbed firsts in first and second singles and first doubles en route to scoring its winning 11 point total. Arlington finished with six, Ottawa and Evanston with four and one-half, York with four, Prospect and Glenbard West 2 and one-half, and Blue Island with one and one-half.

Oak Park started off by grabbing the first singles title behind Pete Armstrong who defeated Prospect's Dave Johnson en route to his championship. Johnson came back, though, to take fourth place in the meet after bettering Arlington's Bob Crockett, 6-2, 6-4. Crockett finished the meet in sixth.

At second singles, Oak Park again came up with a winner, Pete Skiles. Prospect's Chuck Hughson and Arlington's Rob Baer, after suffering first round losses, defeated their next opponents and met in the consolation finals, where Hughson claimed fifth place with an 8-7 decision.

The Oak Park first doubles duo of Dave Martin and Bill Dutton also came up with a title, beating Arlington's Ken Jorgensen and Greg Harris in the finals, 9-7, 6-3. Jorgensen and Harris had started off by topping Blue Island's Hammond and Hamilton 6-0, 6-0, then bettering Evanston's Royal and Whittington, 6-2, 7-5, before falling to the Oak Park twosome. Prospect's entry of Chris Sales and Mike Wells failed to win at first doubles.

In second doubles, the Cards took their sole first in the meet. Paul Stevens and Bill Stelling combined to whip Glenbard West's Mitchell and Ruschman 6-0, 6-0, then topped York's Jones and Porkom in the semi-finals 6-2, 6-0 and in the finals shot past Oak Park's Horwich and Schroton, 7-5, 6-3.

The Knight entry of Bob Bruhl and Brian Baumbach failed to pick up any points in the meet.

Central Road, Dana Point West, Arlington Heights, became the bride of Robert R. Stahlberg. The groom is the son of the Clarence Stahlbergs of Morton Grove.

Rev. H. F. Baumgaertel Jr. officiated at the candlelight service in a setting of woodwardia fern arrangements and altar bouquets of white mums and gladioli. Ribbons marked the pews as Barbara approached the altar with her step-father.

Her floor-length gown was of white organza trimmed with embossed lace and seed pearls. The lace also trimmed her train and the edges of her full-length veil. A mantilla headpiece held her veil. White orchids, lily of the valley and variegated green foliage made up her bridal bouquet.

MISS MARIANNE Tomel of Arlington Heights served as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were a cousin of the bride from Barrington, Miss Paulette Langos, and two of the bride's college friends, Mrs. Robert Garner of Kenilworth, and Miss Hillary Kay of Waukegan. Their gowns were all made with white lace bodices and karate silk skirts in rainbow hues. Miss Tomel's skirt was in green, and the others were in pink, blue and yellow.

Their empire gowns were floor-length and they carried muffs with assorted spring flowers of garnet roses, daisies, iris, carnations and baby's breath.

Attending the groom was his brother-in-law, Ernest Jacobi of Des Plaines, as best man, and the bride's brothers, Alfred Langos Jr. and Paul Langos of Arlington Heights, and Allan Klopfer of Northfield as ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Stahlberg

THE RECEPTION for 150 guests was held in the Swedish Club of Chicago where Mrs. Wilkins received in a blue and silver floor-length brocade chiffon with matching coat trimmed in white mink. Her flowers were white orchids. Mrs. Stahlberg chose a peach crepe empire floor-length gown and a corsage of gardenias.

The new Mrs. Stahlberg studied at Pinecrest Preparatory School in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. and the University of Miami at Coral Gables, Fla. The groom studied at the University of Illinois, and has served with the Armed forces. He is now with Moore Cap and Gown Co. in Morton Grove.

After May 1, the newlyweds will be residing in Chicago.

A Fashion Show in the Hospital

Patients at Elgin State Hospital responded enthusiastically to a fashion show presented recently by the Arlington Heights Woman's Club, Mrs. Theodore Kleisner, chairman of the mental health and welfare committee announced.

Cited annually for its volunteer efforts by the Illinois Department of Mental Health, the group marked 12 years of continued service with its spring party and fashion show.

Organized in 1957, the group brings entertainment and refreshments to two wards one afternoon monthly. Mrs. George Glow, then Woman's Club president, recommended its establishment. In the year 1968-69 the group compiled a record number of 556 service hours to the patients.

The fashion show was prepared and presented by the American Home committee with Mrs. William Hughes, chairman, acting as coordinator and commentator.

SINCE THE WOMEN had made the featured gowns themselves, they punctuated the display with explanations of how the garments were constructed to the great delight of the patients, many of whom had sewed in the past, said Mrs. Hughes. Models were Mrs. Frank Broniarczyk, Mrs. Walter Edelblute, Mrs. Lester Oliver, and Mrs. Marion Hogate.

The mental health committee this year prepared 110 gifts for the Christmas party at the hospital; provided entertainment through the cooperation of the music department of Arlington High School three times; gave a program of Christmas carols sung by Mrs. William Fricke; piano music was volunteered by Mrs. Edward McGrath; guitar folk music was rendered by Vess Dure of St. Viator High School.

Committee members, some of whom have served since 1960, include: Co-chairman, Mrs. H. P. Kroenke, Mrs. R. M. Anderson, Mrs. Ben F. Carns, Mrs. Myron Custin, Mrs. Robert Meyers, Mrs. Charles Nute, Mrs. Richard Oldenberg, Mrs. Frank Precilio Jr., Mrs. Seymour Reck, Mrs. George Rose and Mrs. Theodore Samuelson.

It's Easy To Predict the Future For Mount Prospect Woman's Club

If Irene Hughes predicts a long, lazy summer for members of Mount Prospect Woman's Club, the psychic-mystic will be able to chalk up another plus to her long list of predictions that have come to pass. Mrs. Hughes will be speaking to the clubwomen and their friends next Tuesday at the annual spring luncheon after which the women will "rest up" all summer preparing for another busy club year to start in the fall.

The luncheon is being held in Ilasca Country Club beginning with cocktails at noon followed by luncheon at 1. Before Mrs. Hughes speaks, a brief business session will be held during which new officers will be installed by Mrs. Kay Miller, a past president of the Mount Prospect club.

NEW PRESIDENT to be installed is Mrs. Donald R. Long, who has been serving as the club's first vice president. Retiring president is Mrs. W. G. Medlar.

Tickets for the luncheon are available from Mrs. R. H. Adams, 255-5373, chairman, or Mrs. W. J. Casey, 439-6839. Proceeds will be used for scholarships and heart and cancer research in conjunction with the IFWC 7th District projects.

Plant Sale Saturday In Rolling Meadows

Plats of petunias and pansies and potted geraniums will be sold Saturday in the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center. Sponsoring the sale will be the Rolling Meadows Garden Club.

The club's stand will be located near Ace Hardware, and in case of rain, the sale will be held in the same location on Monday. Proceeds from the annual sale will go toward the beautification of the Rolling Meadows Park District offices on Central road.

The club's next meeting is scheduled for Monday, May 26, in the Rolling Meadows Bank. Guests are invited and further information may be obtained by calling 392-0882.

Downtown Luncheon

Mrs. William List of Palatine is taking reservations for a luncheon and fashion show to be held in the Walnut Room of Marshall Field's downtown store on May 14. Sponsoring the luncheon is the Greater Chicago Lindenwood Club, an alumnae organization for the benefit of Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo.

THE SHOW HOUSE, which has been completely redecorated by area interior decorators, will be open for public viewing beginning Monday. Show hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. through May 25, with proceeds going to the Park Ridge School for Girls.

According to the committee, visitors will find forms of expression ranging from simple to elegant, with touches of whimsical, and color played extravagantly with classic and contemporary furnishings.

Jet Pilot Collapses

CHICAGO—American Airlines pilot E. R. Mecklenburg collapsed over the controls of a Boeing 727 jet plane just before it touched down at O'Hare Airport yesterday. The plane's co-pilot and flight engineer landed the jet and its 92 passengers safely. The stricken pilot was taken to a Chicago hospital for tests to determine the cause of his collapse.

He was reported in satisfactory condition.

Tough Crime Bill

SPRINGFIELD — Probation would be denied to anyone convicted of a felony in which a gun was used under a bill passed by the House Wednesday. The bill is aimed at cutting down the number of second and third offenses by making prison terms mandatory.

House Recesses

SPRINGFIELD — You will probably find your state representatives at home or in their local offices today. The House has adjourned for the week. It will reconvene Monday afternoon.

Clearing a Channel

WASHINGTON — The difficulty local and state governments have in cutting through the bureaucratic tangle surrounding federal programs is a concern of President Nixon. He has asked Congress for the power to combine similar programs under one agency. He feels this would eliminate duplication of efforts at the federal level and simplify procedure on the state and local level.

Eager? Volunteer

WASHINGTON — An Office of Voluntary Action has been created within the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The office, promulgated by President Nixon in the 1968 political campaign, will be a clearing house for information on volunteer activities and will help willing volunteers find areas of service in government.

It's Goldwater - Jr.

LOS ANGELES — There are two Barry Goldwaters in Congress, now — Sr. and Jr. The son of the Arizona senator, won a resounding victory in a special election for California's 27th Congressional District seat. He is a 39-year-old, bachelor stockbroker.

Probe the Panthers

SAN FRANCISCO — A federal grand jury has begun an investigation of Black Panther activities. The inquiry began Wednesday with the appearance of seven Negro witnesses, subpoenaed from several cities.

Coast A-Quiver

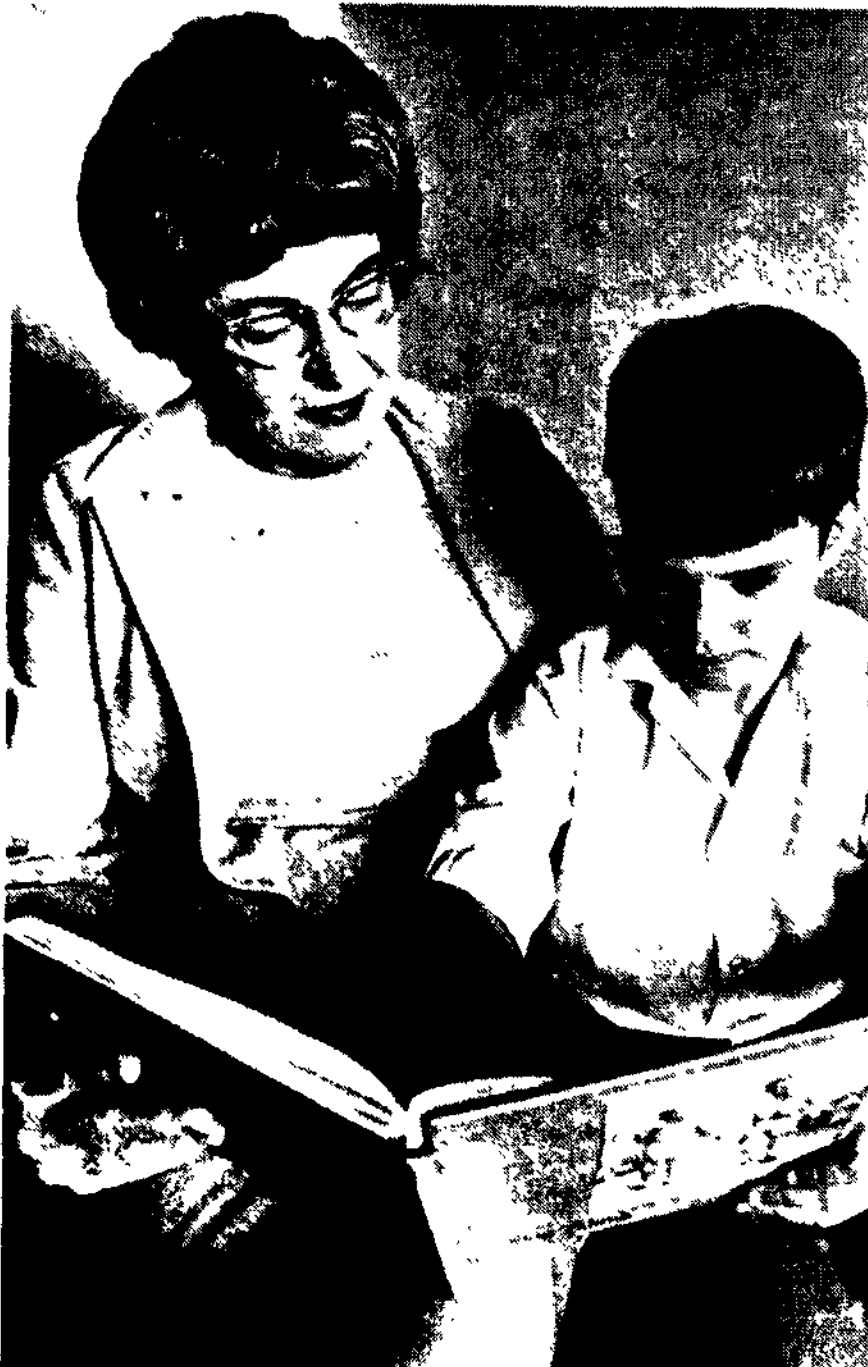

PASADENA — Seismographs got a workout Wednesday. First there was a sharp aftershock from a strong earthquake that rocked Southern California two days ago. It was the strongest of the dozen aftershocks recorded in the wake of Monday's quake. It was followed some 45 minutes later, but only coincidentally, by a nuclear blast in Nevada that were felt in Las Vegas, 70 miles from the detonation site.

No Comedown - Yet

ST. LOUIS — You think you have problems this morning? Owners of 44 automobiles trapped in the upper level of a 15-story automatic parking garage in St. Louis would show little sympathy. Their autos were trapped there when the automatic elevator in the garage broke down. A part to repair the elevator has been ordered from Chicago. No one knows when it will arrive. Many of the car owners who were hotel guests have left town. When their cars will join them, no one knows.

Secretaries Slain

KANSAS CITY, MO. — Two young secretaries were found stabbed to death Wednesday in their apartment in a fashionable section of town. The killer, who paused to wash the blood off his hands before fleeing the apartment, used a "stiletto-type" weapon.

FINDING TIME for more than official city business, Mrs. Elizabeth "Pinky" Houldsworth, newly appointed Rolling Meadows city clerk, enjoys an active family life including storytelling to her youngest son, Billy.

Summer School Set

Summer school courses will be available to students in Dist. 15 at the Stuart R. Paddock and Winston Churchill schools in Palatine and Carl Sandburg School in Rolling Meadows, beginning June 16.

Classes will continue until July 18. All classes will be conducted in the morning.

The program will offer courses in remedial reading and mathematics, speech correction, and enrichment classes in creative art, instrumental music, creative science, creative dramatics, creative language arts and personal typing.

Registration for remedial classes will close May 19, while the deadline for enrichment classes is June 2.

Classes in reading will be for children in grades two through eighth, while children in grades three through eighth may enroll in mathematics classes. Those youngsters promoted to grade three for the 1968-70 school year are eligible for reading. Youngsters promoted to grade four are eligible for mathematics.

THE CLASSES will be held one hour per day, with $32.50 tuition per class enrolled.

Faces Three Charges

A Palatine man was arrested Wednesday night by Rolling Meadows police and charged with reckless driving, driving on a revoked license and aggravated assault after allegedly pulling a knife on a resident who told him to drive slower.

James E. Warren, 24, of 3702 Emerson, Palatine, was charged with the three counts after police arrested him in front of 3501 Thrush Lane in Rolling Meadows.

JOHN KINDLER, who lived at the same address, told police he and some neighbors saw Warren driving too fast down the side street and yelled to him to slow down. Kindler said that when he went to get the license number Warren had a knife in his hand. He said he called police, who later discovered that Warren's license had been revoked in 1964.

Warren was held in Rolling Meadows jail overnight because he failed to post the necessary $500 cash bond. He will be arraigned in Arlington Heights Court.

Village Clerk 'Pinky' Tells Key to Success

by MARTHA KOPER

Learning to make the most of every moment in the day has been the key to success for the suburban working housewife, recently named Rolling Meadows City Clerk.

Lunch hours aren't just a time to eat for Mrs. Elizabeth Houldsworth. She also manages to do many of her household chores, including cleaning, washing dishes and making beds.

Asked about keeping such a tight schedule, she smiled, "It doesn't make me feel tired. I just feel more efficient."

Known as "Pinky" to all her co-workers and friends, Mrs. Houldsworth and her husband and four children have lived in Rolling Meadows for almost 10 years.

A fair complexioned, tall woman with striking red hair, it's easy to understand why "Pinky" can't remember ever being called anything else.

"OF COURSE, I was always Elizabeth Ann to my mother. She didn't like nicknames," she said.

Her mother must have been even more disgruntled when friends back in their hometown of Davenport, Iowa, started calling her younger sister, "Little Pinky."

But that was long ago since Pinky and her husband moved out of Iowa after they were married 18 years ago.

The two sisters are together again, though, after the younger also found her way to Rolling Meadows with her husband who is a nephew of "Pinky's" husband.

"We're all well related," "Pinky" smiled.

She's been a city employee off and on since 1961. Although she quit her job as a city hall secretary a couple of times, she was always called back.

"THERE WERE A few times I decided to spend more time at home so I would stop working," she explained.

"But then, someone would get sick at city hall or have to resign and I would be asked to return. I just never could tell them no," she added.

And now, after serving as deputy city clerk for almost three years, she's been appointed to the city clerk's position.

More than flattered by the council's vote of confidence, she's excited about the new job too.

"Ever since I started working at city hall, I've been interested in what's going on in Rolling Meadows," she explained.

"Even when I quit those couple of times, I still took the minutes at council meetings. I've been doing that for the past eight years," she added.

"PINKY" ADMITTED, "I like being involved. More people should take the time to find out what's going on in the city because I think Rolling Meadows is a great place to live and the greatest place to raise children."

Speaking from experience with four children ranging from 8 to 16-years-old, she explained, "Kids can go almost any place alone in the city."

"It's either within walking distance or close enough to ride a bike," she explained.

Of course there are a few activities Pinky also attends, since her two oldest sons, Jimmy, 16, and Wally, 15, are actively in-involved in sports at Forest View High School.

"I didn't miss a wrestling match last year except the one in which Jimmy was hurt," she painfully remembered.

ASIDE FROM SPORTS events, there's enough time in "Pinky's" busy days for other recreation.

Strong bridge enthusiasts, the Houldsworths find time to play regularly with the St. Colette's Bridge Club and a group from School Dist. 15's PTA.

Since moving to Rolling Meadows, "Pinky" also has been a Girl Scout leader and taught catechism at St. Colette's.

There has even been enough time for the Houldsworths to do some camping, including a stay in Yellowstone National Park, and some long weekends in northern Wisconsin.

"But it's always good to get home," she smiled.

Sometimes called a one man chamber of commerce for the city, Pinky admitted, "There are times I think I talk too much, but I want people to feel like I do about Rolling Meadows."

Best Photographer

by BOB ZANIC

"When I received the letter informing me I had won, I'm not really certain how I felt... just surprised and glad I guess."

So said Greg Warner, a lanky and alert 15-year-old Rolling Meadows student at Fremd High School.

Greg, who lives at 1765 Taft Ave., was named the High School Photographer of the Year by the Illinois Press Photographers Association at its spring workshop Sunday.

His photographs won three awards out of the top five, plus an honorable mention. The photos were:

"Stand Up for America," awarded "Best of Show."

"Memories of a Time Past," a third place winner.

"Nine and Twenty Blackbirds," a winner of fifth place.

A SEQUENCE OF shots taken of a high school coach during a basketball game, won an honorable mention.

Greg is the first and only sophomore ever to receive this award, and more remarkable, he accomplished it with less than a year of photography experience.

"I've always been interested in photography," the former New Jerseyite said, "but never really had the opportunity to pursue it."

The opportunity came to Greg one afternoon last spring while he was sitting in a Fremd study hall listening to announcements over the public address system.

Suddenly an announcement that the school paper needed photographers caught his attention.

"I didn't realize it then, but I would say this was the opportunity I was looking for."

IN REFLECTION Greg said, "a lot of credit for my success should go to Mrs. Pat Mulcrone, Fremd English teacher and editor of the paper and to Mrs. Cotter, yearbook editor."

"The only students who ever showed up for the job were myself and a couple of girls. We all got jobs but the girls didn't last very long."

After the first edition was published, Greg was appointed Chief Photographer. Soon afterwards, he did photography for the yearbook.

The following summer Greg visited his aunt's home near Cape Cod, and being handy with tools, remodeled her entire front porch.

HE ALREADY HAD plans on how to use the money earned from this project and when he wasn't working, he read many magazines about photography. He also found time to draw up plans for a dark room. He had one major regret while at Cape Cod.

"I didn't bring a camera with me at the time," he said, and Cape Cod is not a place for a photographer to be without his camera. The landscape is very photogenic."

When Greg returned home he bought the necessary material and began building his lab. When the cabinet work and shelving were completed, he began adding the photography equipment.

The lab is compact in size, clean, order-

FREM'D HIGH SCHOOL student Greg Warner took this photo at the Kingswalk Apartment Fire in Rolling Meadows in March. Greg, who was just named high school photographer of the year by the Illinois Press Photographers Association, lives near the apartments and was one of the first photographers on the scene. The picture appeared in the Herald March 26.

FREED HIGH SCHOOL'S annual Variety Show will be presented Friday and Saturday night at 8 p.m., in the school cafeteria. Entitled, "Up, Up, and Away," the show will use a dual stage for the first time. Continuity will be provided by the "Peanuts" gang. Entertainment will include dancing, vocal groups, instrumentals, monologues and skits. The show is directed by Carl Chiddister, with choreography by Mrs. Holly Lamke and stage band by Jeff Corbin. The stage manager is Glenn Templeman.

ly and equipped with an electric heater. Cabinets and shelving are strategically located, and all items are arranged for easy use. Greg said he has a policy of cleaning the lab after every work session.

"COMING TO A clean lab makes getting started easier and the experience enjoyable."

And as a result of shooting many pictures, an activity he considers very important, he devotes many hours in the lab developing those pictures.

Exactly how did Greg go about taking his award-winning shots and what caused him to enter the contest?

To begin the photo "Stand Up for America" which shows a kneeling hippie-type smoking a cigarette in front of a post-election poster "Stand Up for America" was selected from a series of shots he had taken of the hippie.

GREG HAD SEEN the hippie working at a local gas station and one afternoon asked him if he would pose for some shots. The hippie consented and was furnished with a paint can and was instructed to paint an old wooden structure that was covered with election banners.

Greg shot away, and out of that experience came the High School Photographer of the Year Award.

The birds were heading south for the winter and a large flock of them had chosen Greg's backyard to rest.

He had bought a new lens and hadn't tried it out yet. When he saw the birds, he also saw the opportunity to use the lens. He took many shots, then selected three, and put them together.

"MEMORIES OF A Time Past" was very simple to take," he said. "I just placed all of the antique items on top of an old table, turned on the overhead light bulb and started shooting."

The coaching sequence was taken during a Fremd High School basketball game and although the coach's face had a worried cast about it, his team had won the game.

The idea for entering the contest came as a result of reading about it in Paddock Publications.

"I wrote away for the information and then filled out all of the papers and followed the instructions."

Among Greg's other interests are horseback riding, for which he has won several awards, and mathematics. However, he has changed his vocational choice from engineering to photo-journalism. He was also responsible for starting a Camera Club at his school.

AFTER ATTENDING a photography seminar at Paddock Publications around Christmas and watching how the professionals do it, Greg said that he realized he had a lot to learn.

"But I prefer to be in a profession where there is always the opportunity to learn something new. I like experiencing different things and not being confined in one place. I can't see myself sitting behind a desk all day."

Greg intends to keep on studying photography, but more important, plans to shoot as many pictures as possible.

"That is the only way to learn this very demanding art," he said.

Colt League Registration Underway

Registration for the Palatine Colt League, for boys 15 and 16 years old, is now under way.

Prospective players must phone either 358-0199 or 358-0982 between now and May 22 in order to play.

The Colt League team will play in the Northwest Suburban Colt League against teams from Rolling Meadows, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Mundelein, Lake Zurich, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Hoffman Estates.

Games are played at 6:15 p.m. week nights and during the day on weekends.

LAST YEAR'S Palatine Colt League team, representing Tom's Standard Station, won the Lake County League championship, topping 12 other area teams.

The Colt League program is designed as a feeder activity for high school baseball teams in the area. Boys who are interested in playing in high school baseball are encouraged to participate in the program.

17 Students Win Merit Scholarships

Seventeen area high school students have been named National Merit Scholars. The awards mark them as among the cream of the crop in this year's high school graduating classes throughout the country.

The names were released Wednesday night by the National Merit Scholarship Corp., Evanston, which coordinates the annual recognition and scholarship competition funded by colleges, corporations and foundations throughout the United States.

The announcement stresses that the number of award winners has no relation to a high school's quality.

If it did, Arlington and Prospect High Schools could claim equal honors. Each school had four merit scholarship winners, while Sacred Heart of Mary High School was next with three.

ARLINGTON Heights has eight of this year's merit scholarship winners among its residents while Mount Prospect has five.

Twelve of the 17 are merit scholars are girls. Those cited as winners and the colleges they will attend are:

Arlington High School — Barbara Fondrie, 510 S. Pine, University of Illinois; Laura M. Jenkins, 915 N. Belmont, St. John's University; Linda J. Nielsen, 1210 W. Euclid, Illinois State University and Brian Renz, 116 E. Orchard, Michigan State.

Prospect High School — Judith Noland, 709 S. William, Mount Prospect, Michigan State; Laurence A. Wonders, 700 N. Main, Mount Prospect; Michele Hussli, 1302 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, Rosary College, and Pamela Weir, 304 N. Drury Lane, Arlington Heights, Illinois Wesleyan.

Sacred Heart of Mary High School — Debora L. Threedy, 2277 N. Circle Drive, Palatine, college not specified; Christine A. Kirby, 17 Kenilworth, Elk Grove Village, University of Pittsburgh, and Susan M. Zwolski, 903 Alder Lane, Mount Prospect, Macalester.

Wheeling High School — Barbara Hoesterey, 1115 Greenfield Lane, Mount Prospect, University of Illinois.
Conant High School — Lynn Churchill, 218 Arizona Blvd., college not specified.
FOREST VIEW HIGH School — Mark W. Frisbie, 901 S. We-GO Trail, Mount Prospect, University of California, and Raymond L. Kook, 1146 S. Mitchell, Arlington Heights, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Palatine High School — M. Leslie Peak, 217 N. Norman Drive, Palatine, American University.

St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights — David W. Woods, 726 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights, Michigan State University.

Some of the students received scholarships ranging from $100 to $6,000, depending on financial need and the type of college they will be attending. Funds for these scholarships are donated by colleges or corporations.

The National Merit Scholarship Foundation gave two types of direct awards — $1,000 scholarships and honorary, not cash citations.

On making comparisons between schools based on the number of merit scholars, the corporation said, "The individual wins the award in the Merit Program. While the school deserves credit for its role in developing the student's ability, Merit Scholarship winners are usually products of a combination of able parents, wholesome home influences, effective schooling and other background experience within and outside of formal schooling."

Jet Pilot Collapses

CHICAGO—American Airlines pilot E. R. Mecklenburg collapsed over the controls of a Boeing 727 jet plane just after it touched down at O'Hare Airport yesterday. The plane's co-pilot and flight engineer taxied the jet and its 92 passengers safely to the terminal. The stricken pilot was taken to a Chicago hospital for tests to determine the cause of his collapse. He was reported in satisfactory condition.

Throat Parched?

CHICAGO — As midnight neared last night, the threat of two strikes prevailed. One by the Dairy Employees Union would curtail production of 70 per cent of the city's milk supply. The other, by a teamsters local, would cut off entirely the supply of beer and soft drinks.

Flood Crest at Quincy

QUINCY, Ill. — The crest of the flood-swollen Mississippi River is expected to pass this city today. It will probably be lower than predicted earlier. Upstream at Davenport, Iowa, the river has dropped nearly a foot since cresting at the third highest level in history.

Tough Crime Bill

SPRINGFIELD — Legislation would be denied to anyone convicted of a felony in which a gun was used under a bill passed by the House Wednesday. The bill is aimed at cutting down the number of second and third offenses by making prison terms mandatory.

House Recesses

SPRINGFIELD — You will probably find your state representatives at home or in their local offices today. The House has adjourned for the week. It will reconvene Monday afternoon.

Clearing a Channel

WASHINGTON — The difficulty local and state governments have in cutting through the bureaucratic tangle surrounding federal programs is a concern of President Nixon. He has asked Congress for the power to combine similar programs under one agency. He feels this would eliminate duplication of efforts at the federal level and simplify procedure on the state and local level.

Eager? Volunteer

WASHINGTON — An Office of Voluntary Action has been created within the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The office, promised by President Nixon in the 1968 political campaign, will be a clearing house for information on volunteer activities and will help willing volunteers find areas of service in government.

It's Goldwater - Jr.

LOS ANGELES — There are two Barry Goldwaters in Congress, now — Sr. and Jr. The son of the Arizona senator, won a sound victory in a special election for California's 27th Congressional District seat. He is a 30-year-old, bachelor stockbroker.

Coast A-Quiver

PASADENA — Seismographs got a workout Wednesday. First there was a sharp aftershock from a strong earthquake that rocked Southern California two days ago. It was the strongest of the dozen aftershocks recorded in the wake of Monday's quake. It was followed some 45 minutes later, but only coincidentally, by two nuclear blasts in Nevada that were felt in Las Vegas, 70 miles from the detonation site.

No Comedown - Yet

ST. LOUIS — You think you have problems this morning? Owners of 44 automobiles trapped in the upper level of a 15-story automatic parking garage in St. Louis would show little sympathy. Their autos were trapped there when the automatic elevator in the garage broke down. A part to repair the elevator has been ordered from Chicago. No one knows when it will arrive. Many of the car owners who were hotel guests have left town. When their cars will join them, no one knows.

LWV Name Change

Members of the local League of Women Voters (LWV) tonight will pick a new name symbolic of the nonpartisan group's new two-town focus.

They also will decide whether to launch a local government study that could lead to the league supporting or opposing election of village trustees by district rather than at large.

The 6:30 p.m. annual meeting will take place in Old Orchard Country Club.

The league board has recommended that the organization's name be changed to the League of Women Voters of Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect, since the group can now study and take action on local governmental issues in both towns.

THE CHANGE WILL give formal notice of a new area focus for the LWV, which has carried the name of the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters since its organization 12 years ago, although its members come from throughout most of the Northwest suburbs.

How village trustees should be elected will be part of a broader study of local government representation that could also include, the LWV board said, a study of the effectiveness of Caucus endorsement of candidates as a means of encouraging greater citizen participation in the election process.

LWV members also will be asked to re-adopt a local fair housing platform plank that authorizes support for stronger open housing ordinances in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect.

The league board did not recommend adoption of another suggested local government study on library organization and services, but the grassroots LWV membership could override that decision tonight.

THE STUDY WAS proposed by LWV members from Mount Prospect, where the library board and village trustees have been engaged in budget hassles for several years.

Mrs. William Trevor of Rolling Meadows will complete a two-year term and turn over the LWV gavel to a new president tonight. Nominated for the position is Mrs. Duane Ainlay of Wheeling.

Attending the LWV annual meeting will be LWV women from eight Northwest suburban communities — Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates and Rolling Meadows.

Membership in the LWV is open to any woman interested in government. Men, noncitizens and women under 21 may become associate members.

Reconsider Warden Transfer

After a lengthy executive session Tuesday night, School Dist. 59 officials announced that the transfer of Forest View Elementary principal Thomas Warden was "reconsidered" and that the board's decision would be made known Monday.

Board Pres. Dr. Allen K. Sparks will announce at the group's meeting whether or not Warden will stay at the district administration center.

The principal was transferred during controversy initiated by parents of Forest View students to the position of curriculum coordinator at the administration center.

PARENTS CHALLENGED the motive of the transfer, and demanded that Warden be returned to the school. The decision to reconsider the matter was at the request of the parents following a heated forum last week.

The Monday meeting of the board of education will be held at Brentwood School, 260 W. Dulles, Des Plaines. It is the first in a series of board meetings that will rotate throughout schools in the district.

Tonight Robert Teichert will assume the post of mayor of Mount Prospect.

He will take office in brief ceremonies conducted by outgoing Village Clerk Richard Munroe. With Teichert will be five incoming village officials of the United Economy Party, four of them Trustees and incoming Village Clerk Donald Goodman.

For Teichert, tonight's ceremonies will be simply a formal acceptance of the office. Aside from the brief swearing-in ceremonies, the new board is expected to appoint an acting village manager and then quickly close the meeting. The first working session of the board is scheduled for next Tuesday.

Although tonight's session is expected to be short, the trustees will be faced with the decision of selecting an interim village manager.

Many village officials now feel the choice should be John Zimmerman, village attorney, but the job could go to Dick Jess, finance director.

THE ACTING MANAGER will be appointed for an indefinite period and will receive the full pay of the manager.

If any serious debate emerges tonight over the selection of the acting manager, the board will probably go into executive session and exercise its prerogative of choosing a man for the position in private.

For Robert Teichert, tonight's board meeting will be the beginning of his term as mayor and will mark the start of his formal actions for the village.

Teichert has refused to comment on his post in the weeks since the election, feeling that his comments on village affairs could be inappropriate until his formal assumption of office.

Teichert is expected to reveal plans and programs for the village in the few weeks following tonight's meeting. As with most changes of administration, the village will probably see some changes on appointed boards and commissions.

THE NEW TRUSTEES and mayor will also have to decide on procedures for seeking a new village manager. In the past, villages have sought managers through formal organizations such as the City Manager's Association and other professional groups.

For the outgoing officials, the next few weeks will be holidays in the sun. Former Mayor Daniel Congreve departs this morning for a vacation in Jamaica and Village Manager Robert Moore will leave for the west coast before taking on duties as an officer at the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank.

Cab Owner Offers Advice

by MARTHA MOSER

A man whose business is transportation has stepped forth with advice and concern for a mass transportation study of the Northwest Municipal Conference.

Robert Birks, president of the Prospect and Elk Grove Village Cab companies, has written a reminder letter that the private business sector is also interested in improved transportation.

The letter was directed to Elk Grove Village Pres Jack Pahl, head of the conference's attack on transportation problems.

Pahl got conference approval Friday to set up a study on meshing all area modes of travel.

As a model transportation district study, federal aid in funding is anticipated for making improvements.

BIRKS SAID IN an interview Wednesday that he would like to see local taxicab companies participate in any transportation innovations, rather than have competitive systems brought in.

Birks said he would be willing to serve or a citizens committee Pahl intends to establish. The committee is to be made up of all area transportation interests — schools, churches, senior citizens, business and industry.

"I'm all for better transportation," Birks said. "We pride ourselves on picking up in 10 to 15 minutes, while some suburbs have an hour's wait for a cab. We have tried and are still trying to find ways to cut time down to five minutes and we do during the day."

Though not plugging for federal subsidy, Birks said if the government subsidized local taxi companies that have done a proven good job, the company could cut rates, provide more cars and offer cheaper and better transportation.

BIRKS WROTE TO Pahl: "To date, there is no major transit authority willing to undertake the risk of attempting a dial-a-bus system due to its failure in the past. Also, there is no way to offset the cost of operation in off hours. The federal government or the village would have to make up the deficit."

The cab company owner said if dial-a-bus is recommended, however, it should begin with existing local business.

"I'm sure cab companies would be pleased to work out something like this," Birks said. "We should be given the first chance to come up with the answer."

Vandal Toll - $750

Vandals Wednesday night fired a BB gun into three front windows of the G. C. Murphy store at 1127 East Rand Road, according to Mount Prospect police.

Damage was estimated at $750. An investigation is under way.

Here's What Village Plan Commission Does

(First in a Series)
by EDITH FREUND

The "Plan Commission" sounds as if it might be the name of a new acid-rock group formed by precocious teens. It's not.

In Mount Prospect the plan commission is composed of nine men who sit around a table twice a month and make far-reaching decisions.

So far-reaching are their decisions, in fact, they reach right into the backyards of homeowners, into their schoolhouses, and into their pockets.

The nine men are appointed to the commission for a four-year term. They are not elected, but are responsible to the village mayor or president, who makes their appointments with the "advice and consent" of the village board.

No appointment in the last 10 years has been refused. To be called is tantamount to being chosen.

THE PLAN COMMISSION is responsible for the comprehensive village plan, which affects the present and future development of all lands within the village boundaries. In turn this establishes the tax base, the cumulative assessed value of all buildings and properties within the village boundaries used, as a multiplier with the tax rate of every taxing body — schools, parks, libraries and village government.

"Planning" of communities is a luxurious business, done only during flush times when the economy is ticking away nicely and the expansion of housing, businesses and industries is politic and assured.

Then villages can be a little choosy about what they will "allow" within their boundaries.

Mount Prospect had an advantage over many Northwest communities. It was almost a failure. It was first subdivided in 1874 by Ezra C. Eggleston, but economic conditions in Chicago, as well as in the village, forced Eggleston to give up and sell out by default through tax foreclosures.

AT VARIOUS TIMES the village was re-subdivided, making progress. But compared to other communities it went nowhere. Mount Prospect had an Improvement Association by 1911, but it wasn't incorporated until 1917. A zoning board existed from before its incorporation, and a comprehensive zoning plan was drawn up in 1922.

The slow growth of the village allowed for the incorporation of many excellent features that more prosperous and haphazard communities didn't have. By 1927 it could boast that it had good concrete pavement, adequate sewers for the time, water mains and street lighting. It was a "planned community."

That was the year Axel Lonnquist, a local developer, assumed the important position of division chairman for the National Association of Real Estate boards, and in a speech in Seattle, defined good planning.

"CITY PLANNING is the art and science of the comprehensive development of real estate. It embraces all factors of city building, all the necessary provisions for industry and trade. "City planning coordinates the providing of facilities necessary to the fundamental requirements of the modern city — first, industry and commerce, second, education and the arts; third, recreation, rest and seclusion in our residential sections. Each of these needs must be met."

More simply stated — a planned community may have one overriding characteristic — but it is also balanced by the inclusion of many different types of development. It allows the comfort of residential neighborhoods coupled with the security of an adequate tax base.

The plan commission in Mount Prospect used to be the zoning board of appeals. A plan commission, formed in 1949, met on an irregular schedule. The village plan they were supposed to develop was long in coming.

THE ZONING BOARD of appeals was responsible for village zoning, heard requests for zoning changes, and through its zoning plan was doing some future planning.

After the village growth skyrocketed in the late 1940's, the village fathers of the time hired Robert Kingery, a man who was the professional planner for Cook County, to update the 1922 zoning code.

Eugene Martin, a resident of the village since 1939, worked with Kingery and absorbed many of his professional ideas.

Martin was appointed chairman of the zoning board in 1948, and served as its chairman until 1965, when it became the plan commission.

Martin defined Kingery's work as an "overhaul of the 1922 zoning ordinance establishing an entirely new framework for the village." Kingery was the first to recommend "buffer zones" of multiple housing between single-family residential homes and industry. He recommended planned annexation. According to Martin, many of Kingery's recommendations were ignored.

"WHAT I WOULD call the ultra-conservative group couldn't understand the need to control areas adjacent to the village through annexation, rather than have them develop with less strict zoning and building controls than we had within our boundaries. I agree with Kingery now and I always did," Martin said.

Martin said the development of an area like Centralwood, between Central and the North Western Railroad, but entirely surrounded by industrial zoning is a case in point.

"That is bad zoning and should never have been allowed. But that was the ultra-conservative approach, again," he said.

(TOMORROW — The village plan of 1956 and the story of the comprehensive village plan that was "thrown in the drawer" and forgotten.)

Board To Install Officers

Tonight a new village president, four trustees, and a new village clerk will be installed in office at a special meeting of the Mount Prospect Village Board.

Robert Teichert, newly elected mayor, will succeed Daniel Conrege, and Donald W. Goodman will replace Richard Monroe as village clerk.

TRUSTEES TO BE installed in office are George Reiter and Robert Soderman, both incumbent board members, and Donald Furst and Daniel Ahern. All village officials but Soderman were elected to a four-year term. Soderman was elected to a two-year term.

Also at the meeting an acting village manager will be appointed to replace Robert Moore, who resigned from his post two weeks ago.

John Zimmerman, who presently serves as village attorney, is the most likely candidate to assume the temporary assignment, although it is open to any of the village's seven department heads.

by BOB ZANIC

"When I received the letter informing me I had won, I'm not really certain how I felt just surprised and glad I guess."

So said Greg Warner, a lanky and alert 15-year-old Rolling Meadows student at Fremd High School.

Greg, who lives at 1785 Taft Ave., was named the High School Photographer of the Year by the Illinois Press Photographers' Association at its spring workshop Sunday.

His photographs won three awards out of the top five, plus an honorable mention. The photos were:

"Stand Up for America," awarded Best of Show.

"Memories of a Time Past," a third place winner.

"Nine and Twenty Blackbirds," a winner of fifth place.

A SEQUENCE OF shots taken of a high school coach during a basketball game, won an honorable mention.

Greg is the first and only sophomore ever to receive this award, and more remarkable he accomplished it with less than a year of photography experience.

"I've always been interested in photography," the former New Jerseyite said, but never really had the opportunity to pursue it.

The opportunity came to Greg one afternoon last spring while he was sitting in a Fremd study hall listening to announcements over the public address system.

Suddenly an announcement that the school paper needed photographers caught his attention.

"I didn't realize it then but I would say this was the opportunity I was looking for."

IN REFLECTION Greg said, "a lot of credit for my success should go to Mrs. Pat Mulcrone Fremd English teacher and editor of the paper and to Mrs. Cotter, yearbook editor."

The only students who ever showed up for the job were myself and a couple of girls. We all got jobs but the girls didn't last very long."

After the first edition was published, Greg was appointed Chief Photographer. Soon afterwards, he did photography for the yearbook.

The following summer Greg visited his aunt's home near Cape Cod, and being handy with tools, remodeled her entire front porch.

HE ALREADY HAD plans on how to use the money earned from this project and when he wasn't working, he read many magazines about photography. He also found time to draw up plans for a dark room. He had one major regret while at Cape Cod.

"I didn't bring a camera with me at the time," he said, and Cape Cod is not a place for a photographer to be without his camera. The landscape is very photogenic.

When Greg returned home he bought the necessary material and began building his lab. When the cabinet work and shelving were completed, he began adding the photography equipment.

The lab is compact in size, clean, orderly and equipped with an electric heater. Cabinets and shelving are strategically located, and all items are arranged for easy use. Greg said he has a policy of cleaning the lab after every work session.

"COMING TO A clean lab makes getting started easier and the experience enjoyable."

And as a result of shooting many pictures, an activity he considers very important, he devotes many hours in the lab developing those pictures.

Exactly how did Greg go about taking his award-winning shots and what caused him to enter the contest?

To begin, the photo "Stand Up for America," which shows a kneeling hippie-type smoking a cigarette in front of a post-election poster "Stand Up for America" was selected from a series of shots

he had taken of the hippie.

GREG HAD SEEN the hippie working at a local gas station and one afternoon asked him if he would pose for some shots. The hippie consented and was furnished with a paint can and was instructed to paint an old wooden structure that was covered with election banners.

Greg shot away, and out of that experience came the High School Photographer of the Year Award.

The birds were heading south for the winter and a large flock of them had chosen Greg's backyard to rest.

He had bought a new lens and hadn't tried it out yet. When he saw the birds, he also saw the opportunity to use the lens. He took many shots, then selected three, and put them together.

"MEMORIES OF A Time Past" was very simple to take," he said. "I just placed all of the antique items on top of an old table, turned on the overhead light bulb and started shooting."

The coaching sequence was taken during a Fremd High School basketball game and although the coach's face had a worried cast about it, his team had won the game.

The idea for entering the contest came as a result of reading about it in Paddock Publications.

"I wrote away for the information and then filled out all of the papers and followed the instructions."

Among Greg's other interests are horseback riding, for which he has won several awards, and mathematics. However, he has changed his vocational choice from engineering to photo-journalism. He was also responsible for starting a Camera Club at his school.

AFTER ATTENDING a photography seminar at Paddock Publications around Christmas and watching how the professionals do it, Greg said that he realized he had a lot to learn.

"But I prefer to be in a profession where there is always the opportunity to learn something new. I like experiencing different things and not being confined in one place. I can't see myself sitting behind a desk all day."

Greg intends to keep on studying photography, but more important, plans to shoot as many pictures as possible.

"That is the only way to learn this very demanding art," he said.

Forest View Band 'Superior'

Superior

That's the word that describes the Forest View High School band.

The Illinois High School Band Association recently gave the band the association's highest award — a superior rating.

In the 18-band contest Forest View played the "Minute Man March" by Robert Pearson, "Chorale and Alleluia" by Howard Hanson and "Emperata Overture" by Claude Smith.

Strong support for the band has come from the Band Boosters, an organization of band parents. Through various fundraising projects the group has helped the band to summer camp and has provided transportation for marching engagements.

Future booster activities include a dinner dance May 16 and an all-day car wash May 17 to be held at Forest View High School in Arlington Heights.

Only four band members will be lost through graduation while a large number of freshmen have signed up to take the new full-credit course.

Library Vote Sign-Up Deadline Is May 13

If you plan to cast an absentee ballot in the May 17 dual referendum for the Arlington Heights Memorial Library you have until May 13 to register.

May 13 is the final day for registration in the village clerk's office at 31 S. Arlington Heights Road, according to Mrs. Betty Revard, the clerk. Mail requests for absentee ballots must be at her office by May 11.

The office is open from 9 to 5 every weekday. Mrs. Revard said that if a voter seeking an absentee ballot cannot appear at the office during regular hours, he or she can contact the clerk's office at 253-2340 and make special arrangements to apply for the ballot.

The council is an organization of 83,000 members and subscribers dedicated to the improvement of mathematics education at all levels of instruction.

Jet Pilot Collapses

CHICAGO—American Airlines pilot E. R. Mecklenburg collapsed over the controls of a Boeing 727 jet plane just after it touched down at O'Hare Airport yesterday. The plane's co-pilot and flight engineer taxied the jet and its 92 passengers safely to the terminal. The stricken pilot was taken to a Chicago hospital for tests to determine the cause of his collapse. He was reported in satisfactory condition.

Throat Parched?

CHICAGO — As midnight neared last night, the threat of two strikes prevailed. One, by the Dairy Employees Union would curtail production of 70 per cent of the city's milk supply. The other, by a teamsters local, would cut off entirely the supply of beer and soft drinks.

Flood Crest at Quincy

QUINCY, Ill. — The crest of the flood-swollen Mississippi River is expected to pass this city today. It will probably be lower than predicted earlier. Upstream at Davenport, Iowa, the river has dropped nearly a foot since cresting at the third highest level in history.

Tough Crime Bill

SPRINGFIELD — Probation would be denied to anyone convicted of a felony in which a gun was used under a bill passed by the House Wednesday. The bill is aimed at cutting down the number of second and third offenses by making prison terms mandatory.

House Recesses

SPRINGFIELD — You will probably find your local representatives at home or in their local offices today. The House has adjourned for the week. It will reconvene Monday afternoon.

Clearing a Channel

WASHINGTON — The difficulty local and state governments have in cutting through the bureaucratic tangle surrounding federal programs is a concern of President Nixon. He has asked Congress for the power to combine similar programs under one agency. He feels this would eliminate duplication of efforts at the federal level and simplify procedure on the state and local level.

Eager? Volunteer

WASHINGTON — An Office of Voluntary Action has been created within the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The office, promised by President Nixon in the 1968 political campaign, will be a clearing house for information on volunteer activities and will help willing volunteers find areas of service in government.

It's Goldwater - Jr.

LOS ANGELES — There are two Barry Goldwaters in Congress, now — Sr. and Jr. The son of the Arizona senator, won a resounding victory in a special election for California's 27th Congressional District. He is a 30-year-old, bachelor stockbroker.

Coast A-Quiver

PASADENA — Seismographs got a workout Wednesday. First there was a sharp aftershock from a strong earthquake that rocked Southern California two days ago. It was the strongest of the dozen aftershocks recorded in the wake of Monday's quake. It was followed some 45 minutes later, but only coincidentally, by twin nuclear blasts in Nevada that were felt in Las Vegas, 70 miles from the detonation site.

No Comedown - Yet

ST. LOUIS — You think you have problems this morning? Owners of 44 automobiles trapped in the upper level of a 15-story automatic parking garage in St. Louis would show little sympathy. Their autos were trapped there when the automatic elevator in the garage broke down. A part to repair the elevator has been ordered from Chicago. No one knows when it will arrive. Many of the car owners who were hotel guests have left town. When their cars will join them, no one knows.

Ford Bid in Neutral

Defer Action on 2d Agency

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission deferred action on a request by Ford Motor Co. to rezone an 11.6-acre parcel of land in the northern part of the village to permit construction of a second Ford dealership in the village.

Income projections for the dealership estimated annual totals would be $5.5 million, 75 per cent of which would be in new car sales.

Plan commission members said they wanted more time to study the proposal and to have a committee of lawyers study the legal technicalities. The committee will report to the commission May 14.

FORD PROPOSES BUILDING a new car dealership on a tract of land on the northern edge of the Arlington Industrial Park, on the south side of Dundee Road about one-half mile west of Arlington Heights Road.

Ford is seeking an extension of business zoning which occupies approximately the upper one-third of the property, into two thirds of the total 11.6-acre parcel. The rest of the property will remain MIA, the zoning for the industrial park.

Tentative plans include an open area for storing cars, a new-car garage, a service area and a showroom. Buildings would contain a total of 4,750 square feet.

Planning commission members asked if the new dealership would affect the only present Ford dealer in Arlington Heights, George Poole. Poole's agency is located in the central part of the village.

"We anticipate it will not have any impact," said J. E. Shannon, assistant district manager for Ford Motor Co.

THE NEW DEALERSHIP is expected to draw customers from the northern and eastern areas outside Arlington Heights, rather than taking them away from Poole, Shannon explained.

Ford has an option to buy the land if rezoning is granted.

Legal technicalities include an annexation agreement with the owners of the property concerning zoning. The agreement is dated to expire in July of this year.

In other action last night the commission considered again a request for construction of a medical building on Central Avenue between Fernandez and Ridge. Four doctors are seeking annexation to the village and rezoning to a business usage to permit construction of one unit of a four-building medical complex.

Plans were submitted for a medical center that will include a pharmacy and offices for a general surgeon, practitioner, and oral surgeon and a general dentist.

PLAN COMMISSION members reviewed the plans but informed the doctors' representative that they had petitioned for a planned development. A planned development includes two or more buildings.

Plan commission members looked over the plans but the request will have to be resubmitted and include plans for all the buildings to be located on the site.

Back Bitter Bill

by MARY DRESSER

Unincorporated Prospect Heights has decided to accept the bitter pill of the mile-and-a-half annexation bill, pinning its faith on State Rep. Eugene Schlickman's promise to amend a portion of the bill.

Informed sources, among home owners have speculated that passage of HB 1241 will lead to incorporation of the Prospect Heights area as a city or its annexation to the territory of another village.

During a session of the Northwest Suburban Council of Associations Monday night, a majority of the representatives of homeowner's groups decided to depend on Schlickman and compromise, rather than fighting House Bill 1241.

THE MEETING WAS held as a result of homeowner Marie L. Caylor's efforts to alert unincorporated areas to the annexation provisions of the bill.

The bill allows municipalities to annex territory contiguous to a municipality by court order. It has the support of villages such as Arlington Heights and Schaumburg.

Mrs. Caylor journeyed to Springfield last Wednesday to testify against the bill before the Municipalities Committee of the House of Representatives.

She contends the bill does not provide "proper provisions for annexation understandings with the unincorporated area prior to annexation."

SHE TOLD THE committee the recent Herald story concerning the annexation of 60 acres to Arlington Heights, while Buffalo Grove was still considering the property, caused her further concern.

Mrs. Caylor called HB 1241 a measure written solely for "land grabbing" by municipalities "without consideration or approval by taxpayers who should be consulted before arbitrary annexation takes place."

During her Springfield testimony, Atty. Paul Stemm, Republican precinct captain of Prospect Heights; Richard Schulz, president of the Old Town Sanitary District; and Ralph Van Patten, president of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association, also testified.

THE THREE MEN told NSCA members Monday they had negotiated a deal with Schlickman that would partially exempt areas such as Prospect Heights from the provisions of the bill.

Stemm explained that Schlickman's bill which has the support of Gov. Richard Ogilvie and the Illinois Municipal League, was written "with a broad brush" to cover problem communities in the state.

"In defense of Gene, it did not originate with him," Stemm said.

Prospect Heights, which is the largest unincorporated area in the state, should not be included with other unincorporated areas, homeowners contend.

The amendment Schlickman inserted into the bill, which should come to a vote in the house today, exempts Prospect Heights from the mile-and-a-half provision for annexation by the phrase "bonded together by unique or common characteristics," describes it as a "separate community" with at least "65 per cent residential development," and locates it "adjacent to more than two communities."

"GENE CLEARLY has our interests at heart," Stemm said. "He is one of the more conscientious and hard working people in the house."

Schlickman, contacted by the Herald in Springfield yesterday, said he was confident the bill and the amendments would pass the house today.

During the meeting Mrs. Caylor pushed for an out-in-out fight against the bill, but homeowner's representatives would not back her although she insisted she could get support from labor organizations in the state.

"I think opposition from the rest of the state could defeat this," said Mrs. Caylor.

LIGHT UP A cigarette in the smoking area at Forest View High School, and don't worry about the principal. At the high school in southern Arlington Heights, it is legal, provided you smoke on the designated plot of land.

Smoking Area Works: Jenness

by MARY SCHLOTT

Forest View High School Principal Lawrence Jenness says his on-campus smoking area is doing what it intended — getting smokers off the street.

Jenness told the Herald that the Forest View faculty reached that conclusion in its latest assessment of the school's on-campus smoking experiment.

"We have no greater incidence of smoking in the building and I think a little less," Jenness added.

Forest View was given permission last fall to establish a smoking area on its grounds. Before that, students wishing to smoke frequented a muddy tract across from the high school along busy Goebbert Road.

SOME HIGH SCHOOL Dist. 214 school board members, in voting Forest View students on-grounds smoking privileges, had expressed the hope that fewer students would smoke if it wasn't "forbidden fruit."

Jenness said that the number of smokers did drop off for a while, but he hesitated to draw a long-term conclusion.

He did admit that "there does not seem to be any greater incidence of smoking."

The Herald made the check of the Forest View set-up this week because students at other high schools, notably Elk Grove where smoking is flatly banned within sight of the school, are seeking the same privilege.

The Dist. 214 school board, in approving the on-grounds smoking area for Forest View, said the same privilege could be extended to any of the other Dist. 214 schools — Arlington, Prospect, Elk Grove, Wheeling, and Hersey.

Hersey High School could make the same case as Forest View High School, that of students in danger from traffic.

HERSEY STUDENTS smoke now along Thomas Street, a road as heavily traveled as Goebbert.

Dist. 214 Supt. Edward H. Gilbert noted that Forest View school officials had a key advantage in making its request to the board.

Students, the Student Council, the faculty and the Teacher Parent Council, all endorsed the proposal to designate a smoking area on school grounds.

"I would expect the same sort of thing from any other school community making a similar request," Gilbert asserted.

At Dist. 214 schools where smoking is not permitted on school grounds, teachers are expected to spend a certain amount of time patrolling washrooms. Some schools have taken doors off toilet stalls in the most heavily-used washrooms to make surveillance easier.

ELK GROVE Principal Robert Haskell estimates five to 10 students are picked up weekly for smoking in the school building.

H. Louis Schultz, assistant principal at Hersey High School, says when a student is caught smoking the first time the policy is to suspend him until a parent conference is held.

A second offense draws a one-week suspension, as parents are warned when they come in with the first-time-caught offender.

Prospect High School does not permit smoking on school grounds — but unofficially designates an area just off the edges of the school grounds for student smokers.

IN A POLL, one in every 10 Prospect students admitted to lighting up in school despite the rules. About 60 per cent of the student body said they thought the smoking rules should be updated.

Wheeling High School smokers congregate away from streets, near neighbors, some of whom complain.

Arlington students who smoke off school grounds tend to disperse into a couple of nearby snack shops or scatter along the street.

LWV Name Change

Members of the local League of Women Voters (LWV) tonight will pick a new name symbolic of the nonpartisan group's new two-town focus.

They also will decide whether to launch a local government study that could lead to the league supporting or opposing election of village trustees by district rather than at large.

The 6:30 p.m. annual meeting will take place in Old Orchard Country Club.

The league board has recommended that the organization's name be changed to the League of Women Voters of Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect, since the group can now study and take action on local governmental issues in both towns.

THE CHANGE WILL give formal notice of a new area focus for the LWV, which has carried the name of the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters since its organization 12 years ago, although its members come from throughout most of the Northwest suburbs.

How village trustees should be elected will be part of a broader study of local government representation that could also include, the LWV board said, a study of the effectiveness of Caucus endorsement of candidates as a means of encouraging greater citizen participation in the election process.

LWV members also will be asked to re-adopt a local fair housing platform plank that authorizes support for stronger open housing ordinances in Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect.

The league board did not recommend adoption of another suggested local government study on library organization and services, but the grassroots LWV membership could override that decision tonight.

THE STUDY WAS proposed by LWV members from Mount Prospect, where the library board and village trustees have been engaged in budget hassles for several years.

Mrs. William Trevor of Rolling Meadows will complete a two-year term and turn over the LWV gavel to a new president tonight. Nominated for the position is Mrs. Duane Ainlay of Wheeling.

Attending the LWV annual meeting will be LWV women from eight Northwest suburban communities — Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates and Rolling Meadows.

Membership in the LWV is open to any woman interested in government. Men, noncitizens and women under 21 may become associate members.

Our Own Joan Wins Paddock Purple Heart

Mrs. Joan Klussman, staff writer for the Arlington Heights Herald, will be out of action temporarily, because of an on-the-job injury she suffered covering the St. James Town Meeting Tuesday night.

Mrs. Klussman, while walking to the telephone to phone in a story, stumbled on a flight of stairs and broke her ankle. Despite the injury, she phoned in the story.

In other words, she deserves the Paddock Purple Heart for "valor above and beyond the call of duty," as does Mrs. Marianne Strawn of the copy desk, who took her over to Northwest Community Hospital.

17 Students Win Merit Scholarships

Seventeen area high school students have been named National Merit Scholars.

The awards mark them as among the cream of the crop in this year's high school graduating classes throughout the country.

The names were released Wednesday night by the National Merit Scholarship Corp., Evanston, which coordinates the annual recognition and scholarship competition funded by colleges, corporations and foundations throughout the United States.

The announcement stresses that the number of award winners has no relation to a high school's quality.

If it did, Arlington and Prospect High Schools could claim equal honors. Each school had four merit scholarship winners, while Sacred Heart of Mary High School was next with three.

ARLINGTON Heights has eight of this year's merit scholarship winners among its residents while Mount Prospect has five.

Twelve of the 17 are merit scholars are girls.

Those cited as winners and the colleges they will attend are:

Arlington High School — Barbara Fondrie, 510 S. Pine, University of Illinois.

Laura M. Jenkins, 915 N. Belmont, St. John's University; Linda J. Nielsen, 1210 W. Euclid, Illinois State University and Brian Renz, 116 E. Orchard, Michigan State.

Prospect High School — Judith Noland, 709 S. William, Mount Prospect, Michigan State; Laurence A. Wonders, 700 N. Main, Mount Prospect; Michele Hussli, 1302 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, Rosary College; and Pamela Weir, 304 N. Drury Lane, Arlington Heights, Illinois Wesleyan.

Sacred Heart of Mary High School — Debora L. Threedy, 2277 N. Circle Drive, Palatine, college not specified; Christine A. Kirby, 17 Kenilworth, Elk Grove Village, University of Pittsburgh; and Susan M. Zwolski, 903 Alder Lane, Mount Prospect, Macalester.

Wheeling High School — Barbara Hoestery, 1115 Greenfield Lane, Mount Prospect, University of Illinois.

Conant High School — Lynn Churchill, 218 Arizona Blvd., college not specified.

FOREST VIEW High School — Mark W. Frisbie, 901 S. We-GO Trail, Mount Prospect, University of California; and Raymond L. Kook, 1146 S. Mitchell, Arlington Heights, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Palatine High School — M. Leslie Peak, 217 N. Norman Drive, Palatine, American University.

St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights — David W. Woods, 726 S. Dunton, Arlington Heights, Michigan State University.

Some of the students received scholarships ranging from $100 to $6,000, depending on financial need and the type of college they will be attending. Funds for these scholarships are donated by colleges or corporations.

The National Merit Scholarship Foundation gave two types of direct awards — $1,000 scholarships and honorary, non cash citations.

On making comparisons between schools based on the number of merit scholars, the corporation said, "The individual wins the award in the Merit Program. While the school deserves credit for its role in developing the student's ability, Merit Scholarship winners are usually products of a combination of able parents, wholesome home influences, effective schooling and other background experience within and outside of formal schooling."

Cab Owner Offers Advice

by MARTHA MOSER

A man whose business is transportation has stepped forth with advice and concern for a mass transportation study of the Northwest Municipal Conference.

Robert Birks, president of the Prospect and Elk Grove Village Cab companies, has written a reminder letter that the private business sector is also interested in improved transportation.

The letter was directed to Elk Grove Village Pres. Jack Pahl, head of the conference's attack on transportation problems. Pahl got conference approval Friday to set up a study on meshing all area modes of travel.

As a model transportation district study, federal aid in funding is anticipated for making improvements.

BIRKS SAID in an interview Wednesday that he would like to see local taxicab companies participate in any transportation innovations, rather than have competitive systems brought in.

Birks said he would be willing to serve on a citizens committee Pahl intends to establish. The committee is to be made up of all area transportation interests — schools, churches, senior citizens, business and industry.

"I'm all for better transportation."

Birks said. "We pride ourselves on picking up in 10 to 15 minutes, while some suburbs have an hour's wait for a cab. We have tried and are still trying to find ways to cut time down to five minutes and we do during the day."

Though not plugging for federal subsidy, Birks said if the government subsidized local taxi companies that have done a proven good job, the company could cut rates, provide more cars and offer cheaper and better transportation.

BIRKS WROTE TO Pahl: "To date, there is no major transit authority willing to undertake the risk of attempting a dial-a-bus system due to its failure in the past. Also, there is no way to offset the cost of operation in off hours. The federal government or the village would have to make up the deficit."

The cab company owner said if dial-a-bus is recommended, however, it should begin with existing local business.

"I'm sure cab companies would be pleased to work out something like this," Birks said. "We should be given the first chance to come up with the answer."

Pahl told the conference Friday that the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, Chicago Area Transportation Study and Harper Junior College have all promised time and manpower to the transportation study, to be conducted at no cost to the conference. Pahl is now seeking a businessman who could take a year's leave of absence to head the study.

Volunteers Ready For Bell Ringer

Mrs. Jon Floria, 1342 W. Park, Arlington Heights, recently announced that a number of residents have volunteered to assist her in the 1969 Bell Ringer march May 2 through 4.

Marchers will distribute information on mental illness and collect contributions to support the association's work on behalf of the mentally ill.

THE MENTAL Health Association conducts a five-point program with activities in the fields of service, planning, education, action and research. A citizens' organization, the association depends on private contributions to carry out its work.

Mrs. Floria stated the 1969 Bell Ringer goal is $150,000 for the Chicago area. More than 25,000 volunteer marchers are needed to help reach this goal.
